

3 GE nuclear plant engineers resign, cite dangers

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Three engineers who helped design and build nearly 100 nuclear power plants for General Electric have resigned from the company, saying nuclear power is too dangerous for further development.

The management-level engineers, who resigned Monday from GE's Nuclear Energy Division, said they would campaign for passage of a statewide initiative placing a moratorium on the construction of nuclear power plants.

The three men are Dale G. Bridenbaugh, manager of performance evaluation and improvement; Richard B. Hubbard, manager of quality assurance, and Gregory C. Minor, manager of advanced control and instrumentation.

A GE spokesman said the resignations were a "complete surprise" since none of the men had previously expressed "any broad concern about their work or nuclear power."

Their resignation letters, the spokesman added, "present no fresh views or arguments, but repeat... emotional claims. It appears their resignation letters were timed for delivery concurrent with publicity plans designed to exploit their actions."

The engineers said they will join Project Survival, a 4,000-member group campaigning for passage of the nuclear power initiative on the June ballot.

Jim Burch, president of the anti-nuclear group, said the former GE employees "have been involved in almost every facet of General Electric's development of more than 69 nuclear power plants throughout the nation and 29 overseas plants."

"They have become convinced that nuclear power plants are not safe... and they see no possibility the plants can ever be made safe enough to justify the consequences of the risks involved," he said.

Bridenbaugh, 44, who had 22 years with GE, was field engineer during the installation and start of the company's first large-scale commercial nuclear power plant. But in his letter of resignation, he declared:

"Nuclear power has become a technological monster and it is not clear who, if anyone, is in control. I am no longer convinced of the technical safety of nuclear power and I fear the high risk of political and human factors that will ultimately lead to the misuse of its by-products."

Minor, who managed GE's design of nuclear safety and control systems since 1971, said he was "convinced that the reactors, nuclear fuel cycle and the waste storage system are not safe. We cannot prevent major accidents or acts of sabotage."

Hubbard, who said he first entered the nuclear field with a "missionary zeal," said he was worried about unsolved problems of nuclear waste storage and the risk to future generations. He said errors in design, manufacturing and operation of nuclear plants were forcing him to question "the continued operation and proliferation of nuclear power plants."

Hubbard and Minor, both 38, each worked 16 years for GE. All three are married and have three children.

All three said they participated in a company-sponsored stock purchasing program and plan to live on savings from that plan until after the June election. After that, they expressed confidence about finding new jobs in companies geared toward nuclear safety or perhaps in the development of solar and geothermal energy.

$564,013 to Air Force

Northrop must return political donations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Northrop Corp., one of the nation's largest defense contractors, has been forced to return to the Air Force $564,013 in improper costs charged for political contributions, the Defense Department said today.

A spokesman for Northrop said the costs relate to overseas consultants and that information about the consultants became public late last year.

William P. Clements Jr., deputy secretary of defense, said the Pentagon also has suspended final payment of all Northrop contracts other than those with firm, fixed prices, until an audit is completed.

In prepared testimony for the Joint Congressional Committee on Defense Production, Clements did not specify the purpose for which the improper costs were charged. He mentioned them in the context of entertainment for Pentagon employees.

But in reply to questions from the committee, Clements said the costs were charged for political contributions.

Meanwhile, it was learned the joint congressional committee on defense production is preparing to make public the names of dozens of Pentagon officials — including several generals — who were entertained at hunting lodges maintained by Northrop, Rockwell International Corp. and other defense contractors.

Clements, in announcing the suspension of payments to Northrop, said that in the future the firm will be required to demonstrate the reasonableness of all indirect overhead costs charged to the government and that its figures will be checked until auditors are convinced they are valid.

Further details of the Northrop refund to the Air Force were not immediately available. Pentagon regulations prohibit defense contractors from charging for any expense incurred in entertaining government employees.

Clements also said audits are being conducted on 10 other major defense contractors to learn if they sought or obtained reimbursement for entertainment costs not allowable under Pentagon procurement regulations.

Clements identified the other firms as the Raytheon Corp., Rockwell, Hughes Aircraft Co., Martin Marietta Inc., Boeing Aircraft Corp., General Dynamics Corp., Lockheed Aircraft Co., Sperry Rand Corp., the Grumman Corp. and LTV Corp.

In addition, Clements said the Pentagon has opened "an informal confidential inquiry" regarding entertainment offered by a total of 43 defense contractors.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the joint panel on defense production, said evidence shows that corporate entertainment is "widespread, systematic, carefully planned and costly." He said it is aimed at creating "a network of obligations" which can be exploited to the company's benefit.

In testimony Monday, Thomas V. Jones, Northrop president, and Robert Anderson, Rockwell president, said the hunting, free drinks, lunches, dinners and tickets to sporting events were intended only to foster good will and improve communications between company officials and their Pentagon counterparts.

The executives said their companies never intended to take advantage of the social contacts to influence government contract decisions.

They also said all offers of entertainment and other gratuities have been stopped and will not be revived.

Hearst jury is nearing completion

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The judge in Patricia Hearst's trial for bank robbery set his sights today on completing selection of a jury that could begin hearing testimony Wednesday — two years to the day after the heiress was kidnapped by terrorists.

Nine more persons were chosen Monday for the pool of 36 prospects from which the jury will be seated, leaving 11 more to be picked.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter, who suggested last Tuesday as the trial began that a jury could be impaneled within two days, predicted the jury would be seated today.

Defense attorney Albert Johnson quoted Carter as telling attorneys after Monday's closed session, "We will have a jury tomorrow afternoon." He said he agreed with the judge's prediction.

Leg in cast

Wallace hurt when dropped by trooper

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, his paralyzed right leg injured in an accident aboard his campaign plane, left a hospital here early today with a cast on the leg to protect what was described as a strained ligament.

Wallace arrived in Montgomery shortly before midnight, his leg in a plastic inflatable cast put on late Monday in Panama City, Fla. After the examination here, Wallace was driven to the Governor's Mansion for a night's rest. He planned to return to Florida later today to continue his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The injury occurred Monday afternoon after a campaign stop in Pensacola, west of Panama City in the Florida Panhandle. An Alabama state trooper stumbled while carrying Wallace down the aisle of the aircraft and dropped him.

Billy Joe Camp, Wallace's press secretary, had said that the governor would make "a quick trip home" to consult with his personal physician today.

Camp said the decision was later made to take the governor straight to the hospital because Wallace "just wanted to get it over with." He said Wallace was examined by Dr. Mervel V. Parker, an orthopedic surgeon, who confirmed the diagnosis of a strained ligament in the governor's knee.

Wallace told news reporters on arriving in Montgomery that the accident was a "disappointment." But he said he planned to continue the campaign today in Florida.

"I want to explain that the people who put me on the plane dropped me," Wallace said late Monday at a Panama City rally he attended after the plastic cast was put on. "I pulled a ligament. I'm all right though and I hope you know that."

Dr. W. Roland McArthur, an orthopedic surgeon who put the plastic cast on in Panama City, said the leg would have to remain immobile for at least a month.

"It normally takes four weeks for an injury of this type to heal," McArthur said.

Wallace — who is paralyzed from the waist down from injuries suffered when he was shot while campaigning in Maryland in 1972 — suffered a broken leg last year during a physical therapy session.

His opponents have made his health an issue in the campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination. But Wallace insists he is in good physical condition and able to carry on an active campaign.

Goldwater: was aware of plots to kill Castro

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said today that he was told four years ago about U.S. plots to assassinate Cuba's Fidel Castro in the early 1960s but took no action to investigate them.

"In the first place, it was merely talk, and second, if it was part of a presidential plan, it wasn't my business to make it public," Goldwater told newsmen.

"I didn't think it would ever come out," said Goldwater, a member of the Senate intelligence committee which recently completed a lengthy investigation of CIA plots to kill Castro and Congolese leader Patrice Lumumba during the early 1960s.

Goldwater refused to reveal how he learned about the plots against Castro except to say it came "from somebody in the know."

A member of the armed services subcommittee which traditionally has monitored CIA activities, Goldwater said he knew nothing about plots to poison Lumumba but added, "I have friends that did, I find out."

He did not specify whether those friends were members of Congress or the intelligence community.

Kissinger paints grim picture in L.A. appearance

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If Americans let it, detente between the United States and Russia will provide "a safer and saner world." If not, they can expect "chaos," says Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Kissinger's views tended toward the pessimistic Monday during a panel discussion in which he was asked tough questions by three industrialists and an editor.

The secretary said his goal is a "world in which most nations feel a sense of participation and most people feel more secure than they have in the past."

But he added, "We have enormous potentialities for chaos with the growth of the emerging nations, who are full of resentments, the resort to economic warfare, the proliferation of nuclear weapons, the expansion of Soviet military strength — all of this has great danger."

Kissinger was scheduled to address a gathering today at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco and then return to Los Angeles for a "Salute to Israel" at the Beverly Hilton Hotel. Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin was also scheduled to attend the affair.

He spoke Monday in answer to questions put to him by a panel of four men chosen as experts in their fields by the Los Angeles Times: Robert Anderson of the Atlantic-Richfield Co.; Edward W. Carter of Carter Hawley Hale Stores, Inc.; Dr. Simon Ramo of TRW, Inc.; and Anthony Day of the Times. Paul Ziffren, an attorney, moderated.

Kissinger said that "although it is no longer predominant" in global affairs, the United States still has a chance to shape the world's future.

"My biggest worry now is what is going on in the United States domestically," he said. "There must be some degree of national unity. These long-term opportunities cannot be realized without it. Whatever progress we have made so far has just been the first mile on a very long road."

One missed opportunity, he said, was the decision to withdraw all aid to pro-Western forces in Angola, an African country formerly ruled by Portugal and now embroiled in a battle for control by various political factions.

"It would have been easy for us to do what was needed in Angola," he said, "but it will now cost us infinitely more somewhere else."

Kissinger said he will continue to press Congress for some form of military assistance to pro-Western Angolan forces.

Pomona okays two-story, downtown bank project

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

Basic plans for a 32,000-square-foot banking and office building redevelopment project in downtown Pomona were approved Monday afternoon by the Pomona City Council.

If built as tentatively proposed, the two-story structure would front on the west side of Garey Avenue, stretching from Mission Boulevard to Fourth Street, with landscaped parking areas where the old Pomona Post Office now stands.

Although the concept presented to the council by Frank Dominguez, owner of the Vanir Development Co. of San Bernardino, is tentative, a majority of the council approved of the basic plans and artist's conception as shown.

Only Councilman Adrian Wright objected, questioning Dominguez about reports that Vanir's nine-story complex in downtown San Bernardino is in default.

Dominguez replied that a notice of default was in effect on Vanir Tower, the tallest building in San Bernardino, but that it was due to a shortage of tenants in the structure and that a new agreement was being negotiated with United California Bank over the problem.

In any event, said Dominguez, the building is owned by him under a different corporation and would not affect any agreement to construct a building in Pomona.

"We have several buildings under construction right now. We have fulfilled every commitment to build we have entered," Dominguez told Wright.

"The only thing that can jeopardize this project, is our not working together as a team to get it done," said Dominguez.

In November the council granted Dominguez a 180-day period in which to negotiate exclusively for development of the property. Monday's presentation to the council was in keeping with the agreement to provide periodic reports on the proposed development.

"I feel good about the project as tentatively planned," said Mayor Ray Lepore.

On a motion by Councilman Benjamin Ochoa, the council voted 4-1 to approve the building concept and refer the plans to the redevelopment advisory committee for study.

The acceptance of the plans indicates that an agreement must be near between the city and Pomona Development Co., the previous developer for the site, which still holds the title to the property.

Negotiations have been underway for several months concerning the return of the property title to the city.

As depicted by Dominguez and his associates Monday, the proposed structure would have a banking office of about 8,000 square feet and a savings and loan facility of more than 5,000 square feet on the ground floor, separated by an arcade with fountain and skylight through the second level.

The building would have a slightly Spanish flavor with the use of tile along the roofline and earthy-colored building materials throughout.

Although Dominguez did not estimate a dollar value for the plans presented Monday, his initial proposal to the council two months ago indicated a development costing from $1.5 to $2 million.

As a redevelopment project, the developer will receive title to property from the city contingent upon completion of all commitments. Tax rates on the property are frozen at the current level and additional tax revenues generated by the increased valuation of the development are placed in the city's redevelopment coffers for use on other projects.

Chaffey to spend $474,000 on business center

By PHILLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

Chaffey school board Monday night awarded a $474,000 contract to K. L. Neff Construction, Ontario, to remodel the district administration building into business education classrooms.

The contract figure is $21,357 below the architect's estimate for the project and $9,990 below the second lowest bid received which was $483,990. Seven bids were received.

The district administration building, situated on the Fifth Street side of the Chaffey High School campus in Ontario, meets state earthquake standards and is acceptable for student use.

District administration offices, and the school board meeting room, have been moved into Tower Hall. All student activities have been removed from Tower Hall because that structure does not meet state earthquake safety standards.

Any future student use of Tower Hall must be voluntary.

The school board was informed that the remodeling of Tower Hall, at a cost of $513,840.73, was complete and the final inspection had been conducted last Tuesday.

The board room in Tower Hall, used for the first time Monday night, is on the first floor in the west end of the building and is immediately accessible through the rear door.

The board instructed administrators to publicize through a news release the fact that Chaffey district schools will be in session on Friday, Feb. 13, even though Thursday, Feb. 12, and Monday, Feb. 16, are school holidays.

Board member Ray Sarrio failed in his attempt to have "community representatives" named to the five-member screening committee, headed by San Bernardino School Supt. Roy Hill, which is seeking a replacement for Chaffey Supt. Allan G. Smith who will retire the end of the year.

Hill was named to head the committee in late October. The four people serving with him were selected by the school board in early December.

Sarrio's objection was that all committee members are from the educational field and none is an ethnic minority. He made a motion that a second committee of community people be formed to screen candidates.

"We're very sensitive to the minorities in our district," said board president G. A. Chalfant. "We've worked with them, for them. And when it comes to selecting a superintendent, the final decision will not be made by the committee. It will be made by the board."

Sarrio requested that executive sessions be recorded because, he said, he could not recall the December meeting when those to serve on the committee with Hill were named.

Administrators were asked to study policy on this issue and place it back on the agenda next meeting.

The district business office was authorized to develop specifications for the purchase of $131,741 data processing equipment and the personnel office was authorized to advertise for a data processing operations supervisor and a programmer-analyst.

This is the second phase of a computer system which eventually will place equipment in all district schools, handle all district computer work and allow the district to do computer work for other agencies.

The board authorized administrators to apply for state funds to defray costs of adult education services being provided for Indo-Chinese refugees; for $20,000 state funds for career-work experience for 50 students at the Mountain Avenue Alternative High School in Upland; $50,000 in federal funds for a counseling and guidance program for students referred to the alternative school; and $125,000 federal funds for Project Reach, a career education program extending from kindergarten through 12th grade and to involve an elementary school, Vernon Junior High School and Montclair High School.

Administrators also were authorized to apply for federal funds to finance Project Total, or Teaching Occupational Techniques at Alta Loma High School.

Pomona approves plan to demolish shoddy structures

A voluntary program under which a large number of ramshackle structures in south-central Pomona will be demolished at little cost to the property owners was approved Monday night by the Pomona City Council.

Some 60 or more structures, mostly old garages and vacant homes, have been targeted for the program in the neighborhoods located generally south of the Pomona Civic Center complex.

The program will be funded primarily by federal monies from the Community Development Block Grant budget approved last year.

Property owners willing to participate will be charged only $50 for the removal of structures.

In approving the program the council stipulated that no dwellings currently occupied will be included.

City Administrator Jerrold Gonce said that city staff would begin contacting property owners in the near future to explain the program and seek the property owners' approval to remove buildings.

He emphasized that no structures will be removed without the approval of the property owners.

Councilman Charles Bader said he would like to see the program expanded, if successful, to include the demolition of abandoned homes in the other parts of the city.

"It could be one of the answers to our inventory of abandoned homes that cannot be rehabilitated," said Bader.

In other business, the council gave tentative approval to the relocation of the Barbara Greenwood Kindergarten Bungalow on the Casa Primera historical site at Park and McKinley Avenues.

The council required, however, that the volunteer citizens' committee seeking to preserve the structure pay the full costs of building a foundation, sewer connection and other utility connections, and operating maintenance.

June Hyman, chairwoman of the committee, told the council that more than $5,000 in small contributions has been raised so far and that the committee would meet the conditions set by the council.

The council also required that a majority of the property owners in the immediate area must approve the project.

New manager hired by Claremont C of C

G. Philip Bauman, 44, executive vice president of the Building Owners and Managers Association in Los Angeles, has been hired as executive vice president and general manager of Claremont Chamber of Commerce and Convention and Visitors Bureau.

Bauman took over the job Monday, replacing Jerry Hunt, who resigned to become manager of the Santa Cruz chamber.

Bauman was the first manager of the Pasadena Visitor and Convention Bureau in 1961. He became executive manager of the Montebello Chamber of Commerce in 1967.

Since 1971 he has served the Building Owners and Managers Association, whose members handle commercial high-rise office buildings.

In announcing Bauman's selection, chamber President Jerry Hannon said that "Phil brings a strong record of community involvement and accomplishment to the chamber and we're looking forward to a productive relationship with him."

Bauman attended Pasadena City College and received a B.A. degree at Cal State Los Angeles.

Bauman lives in Pasadena. His wife Liz is a custom needlepoint designer at Liz's Sampler in Pasadena.

The Baumans have three daughters, aged 23, 22, and 21.

Little-Remiro jury still out

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The jury in the trial of Symbionese Liberation Army members Russell Little and Joseph Remiro returns for a fourth day of deliberations today.

The Superior Court panel failed to reach a verdict Monday and was sequestered for the night at a downtown hotel.

India ambassador appeals to West to assist poor nations

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

The 110 developing nations in the United Nations want the Western industrialized countries to earmark one per cent of their gross national product to allow a minimum standard of living in these countries.

Rikhi Jaipal, Indian ambassador to the United Nations, made this point Monday in an address at Cal Poly Pomona. But it was challenged later by a student in the audience, who asked: "How can the 110 undeveloped nations expect to receive one per cent of the GNP of the western world when these countries spend money on arms?"

The ambassador explained that these countries face aggression from outside and unrest from within, largely due to their poor economic conditions. He added that these nations, in turn, cannot understand the staggering amounts spent on arms and warfare by the western world.

"In India, we really need even less than the one per cent to bring up our living standard," said Jaipal. He added that funds can always be earmarked and used for health, education, agriculture or other purposes.

The career diplomat who has served in many posts, including 10 years with the United Nations, discussed the role of the developing countries in the U.N. today.

"The United Nations, once an American dream, is now an American dilemma," said Jaipal.

The United States and India were both founding members when the U.N. was established in 1945 with 51 member nations.

"No one anticipated that decolonization would occur as rapidly as it has, especially since 1960."

"Now with 144 nations in the organization, it has become quite unmanageable for a professional diplomat. We never get a chance to know each other and work on close, personal levels," said Jaipal.

Out of the 144 members in the United Nations, 110 are developing countries who hold a two-thirds majority but provide only eight per cent of the support of the organization.

While the developing nations block hold a majority in the United Nations, they are frustrated because they are really still quite powerless, said the diplomat.

A.L. to polish basic school idea in hearings

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Correspondent

Give and take seminars between members of Alta Loma school board and the public will be staged to iron out a final draft of a fundamental school request.

Trustees Monday night, after studying a request submitted last month by proponents wanting a basic school formed in the foothills district, authorized Supt. Floyd Stork to schedule a series of work sessions in which the original proposal can be rewritten more specifically.

Board members neither approved nor quashed the plan, but all said it needed to be redrawn with more specifics included.

A half-hour question and answer session was staged after board members voiced minor complaints about the original proposal — not in concept but presentation.

Deanna Chodon, chairman of BASIC, the group advocating formation of a fundamental school, stated that her group would work with the board.

But trustees all said they were interested in the proposition and desired to learn more about fundamental schools.

Several trustees all said they were interested in the proposition and desired to learn more about fundamental schools.

Several trustees said they would be in the audience at tonight's fundamental school meeting at Chino School District administrative offices. A Pasadena School District official will outline the controversial Pasadena plan at that meeting.

Stork, board President Nancy Kettle and trustee Dick Achuff said they planned to visit Pasadena soon to study the fundamental school plan there which stresses discipline, patriotism and basic reading, writing and arithmetic.

Board members generally stated that if members of BASIC believe the present system suffers, possibly the entire system should be altered and not just one school.

Trustees also said several public meetings to explain the March 2 $8.1 million bond issue will be held to explain the proposal to voters. The issue would finance completion of Jasper School, additions to Alta Loma Junior High School, purchase of a new school site and construction of one new grade school over the next several years. Trustees said that passage of the issue would help eliminate half day sessions now plaguing the rapidly expanding suburban district.

Proposal to control housing boom in La Verne defeated

An attempt to place a moratorium on all available residential parcels "so that they won't be swallowed up by housing developments" was narrowly defeated Monday night by the La Verne City Council.

The proposal lost 3-2 when the majority of the councilmen decided that they needed more information before they could take such action.

They called, instead, for a statement from the Bonita School District on the impact of a report indicating that nearly 1,600 new homes are scheduled to be built in the city shortly.

The call for the moratorium came from Councilman Harrison Sanborn. He disclosed that according to the city's planning department, 22 tracts have either already been approved or are on the drawing boards, calling for the construction of 1,549 homes.

"This kind of growth is much too rapid," Sanborn declared. "All our open land is being swallowed up by developers. I would like to set a moratorium right now. The city cannot possibly provide services for that many additional homes."

He suggested that during that moratorium the Planning Commission make a four to six month study on the effects of the projections, and determine what services the new residents would require in police and fire protection and in water needs.

But City Manager George Caswell said that since most of the developments are earmarked for North La Verne, and since the city has just opened a fire station there, the main problem would be hiring some police. He indicated that water would not be a problem.

Sanborn asked for an emergency ordinance that would take effect immediately, freezing processing of all subdivisions throughout the city. He was joined by Councilman Dan Lopez. But they were outvoted by Mayor Mike Morales, and Councilmen Frank Johnson and Alan Mackay, all of whom felt a lot more study was needed before such a measure was considered.

Shortly after the aborted attempt to freeze growth, the council approved two subdivisions maps: An 11-acre tract calling for 45 units on the southwest corner of Foothill Boulevard and B Street, and an eight-acre parcel calling for 35 units south of Juanita Avenue between Damien and Sedalia avenues.

Freed dissident tells of horrors

3 years in a Soviet 'snake pit'

PARIS (AP) — A dissident Ukrainian mathematician recently released from almost three years in Soviet mental institutions today described a nightmarish world of excruciatingly painful sulphur injections, beatings and breakdowns.

Leonid Plyushch, who was permitted to leave the Soviet Union after his release from a Dnepropetrovsk institution, addressed his first news conference since reaching Paris on Jan. 8.

Plyushch described scenes of "nurses" beating prisoners to death, of patients writhing in agony after sulphur injections, and of others reduced to eating their own excrement.

"Patients begged the guards to be allowed to go to the toilet. One was beaten up, and the guard later told the doctor he had tried to hang himself, although this was not true," Plyushch said.

The 35-year-old mathematician was arrested in January 1972 on charges of anti-Soviet agitation. At his trial, Plyushch was declared insane and committed to mental hospitals where he was diagnosed as having "reform-making illusions."

At Dnepropetrovsk — Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev's home town — Plyushch said he was placed in a ward next to a patient "who had gone completely insane, and whose face had lost human form."

"Another ward, No. 5, was a veritable bedlam, with patients screaming and yelling, urinating on the floors and fighting for the toilet. Some ate their own excrement. One prisoner smashed a window pane and tried to cut his own throat to end the torture of a sulphur injection."

Plyushch said there were 50 political prisoners in this hospital but that doctors "considered me the most dangerous patient" and separated him from the others. He said he was treated with haloperidol and triftazine which he said were drugs of the depressant family.

"Haloperidol induced a condition of torpor and it became difficult for me to read books ... gradually I lost interest in political matters, then in scientific problems and then even in my wife and children. I became indifferent with great gaps in my memory.

"I became reduced to thinking only of the toilet and bribes for the guards."

"Their goal was to break the human being, to destroy his powers of resistance," Plyushch said.

Plyushch also made an impassioned appeal for the release of Mustapha Djemilev. He said Djemilev, an activist for the Crimean Tartar minority, is in the seventh month of a hunger strike.

Plyushch said Djemilev's weight is down to less than 80 pounds "and force feeding is provoking him to internal bleeding. His relatives are seriously concerned that Djemilev may have died already."

ADELA ROGERS ST. JOHNS
A new assignment

Famed newswoman to cover Hearst trial

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A half-century ago she was William Randolph Hearst's star reporter. Today, at 82, Adela Rogers St. Johns has a new assignment — covering the bank robbery trial of Hearst's granddaughter.

She joined the Patricia Hearst trial press corps Monday, sent by the Hearst newspapers to tell the story from her special point of view.

"The Hearsts were like my own family," she said, "and I think they would like to have a story that would show the family interests."

But Mrs. St. Johns, who fondly remembers Patty's grandfather as "W.R.," says she knows how the legendary newspaper tycoon would feel about his granddaughter's trial.

"He'd feel like a great newspaperman; he never felt any differently about anything. He'd want me to cover it just as though her name were not Hearst."

The arrival of Mrs. St. Johns, a journalism legend in her own right, stopped typewriters in the federal building's 20th floor press room as young reporters crowded around to ask questions of the woman who covered the Lindbergh kidnap trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann in the 1930s.

Will the Hearst case be the trial of the century?

"Nonsense!" said Mrs. St. Johns. "I covered the Hauptmann trial; that was the trial of the century. It had all the elements — just like a Shakespeare play."

"This hasn't turned into a big trial yet, has it?" she asked a reporter in the crowded hallway outside a locked courtroom where jurors for Miss Hearst's trial were being selected in secret.

Mrs. St. Johns, saying she was appalled and shocked at the exclusion of news media from the courtroom, observed this wasn't much like the old days.

Rousselot to take look at running for Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Saying he was "very disappointed" that Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr. would not seek the Republican U.S. Senate nomination, fellow Rep. John H. Rousselot says he's taking a "hard-nosed look" at entering the race himself.

The five-term San Marino congressman said Monday he felt Goldwater, who represents a portion of the San Fernando Valley, "had the best chance of beating (Democratic Sen. John) Tunney and I want to make sure we have a hard-hitting congressman." Rousselot said he felt he was "as tough, if not a harder campaigner" than any of the four Republicans who have announced their candidacy to date. He said a private poll taken by Goldwater but "Once, a judge tried to bar us from a trial in Santa Ana," she recalled. "But before he could close the door, my city editor was coming down the aisle screaming and yelling, and before long we were back inside."

Had a judge closed jury selection then, she said, "I would have made scenes, screamed and hollered and got the governor and the president and God knows who else."

She complained to U.S. marshals and attorneys Monday and promised to do some "screaming and hollering in print." She joined other reporters for a five-minute view of the 21-year-old heiress-defendant when the courtroom opened briefly, then was closed again.

"This is a reasonably trite remark," she said. "But freedom of press is the first of all freedoms. Without that, we don't have anything."

A peppery personality and favorite of TV talk shows, Mrs. St. Johns had some other views of the celebrated case.

The daughter of famed criminal trial lawyer Earl Rogers, she thinks the Hearst family may have made a tactical mistake by hiring superstar attorney F. Lee Bailey of Boston.

"My father was in his day considered the greatest lawyer in the country," she said, "and he believed that you shouldn't go out of your home town for a lawyer."

"If I were a San Francisco juror, I would be prejudiced against Mr. Bailey before he starts making the major mistakes that he makes...."

Of her role as a Hearst reporter on the Hearst case, she said, "Naturally, I feel it more. I spent three or four very miserable days when she was missing."

Mrs. St. Johns, who lives at Malibu, Calif., said she hasn't decided whether she'll cover every day of the trial.

Moynihan reaction: Kissinger tactics hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The resignation of Daniel Patrick Moynihan as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations is reviving charges that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is forcing those who disagree with his policies to leave the administration.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, a Democratic presidential candidate, said following Moynihan's resignation Monday that the fiery U.N. ambassador "typifies the strength and character and independence of mind which we expect from our public officials — but which the Ford administration seems unable to tolerate."

Jackson cited as examples the firing of former CIA Director William Colby and former Defense Secretary James Schlesinger and the resignation of former Labor Secretary John Dunlop. President Ford has admitted that deep conflict between Schlesinger and Kissinger led to the defense secretary's ouster.

"The dismissal of Colby and Schlesinger and resignation of John Dunlop and now the departure of Moynihan after his position was undercut are a great loss to America," said Jackson. "Once again the best people are leaving the administration instead of joining it."

Moynihan will resume teaching at Harvard but will keep an eye on a Senate seat from New York when he leaves his post as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations at the end of this month.

The flamboyant, blunt-spoken diplomat made no mention of any friction between himself and President Ford or Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger when his resignation was announced Monday.

But there were reports that Moynihan blamed Kissinger for his departure, saying Kissinger undercut him in private while supporting him in public. And top U.S. officials, speaking privately, made it clear they considered Moynihan a cross to bear because of his outspoken and occasionally caustic statements about world affairs during his 6½ months at the U.N.

Moynihan had complained several times, the latest instance last week, about lack of support for his work at the U.N. He cited unnamed State Department officials for not supporting him at the U.N. and said the President was not at fault.

Jackson said, "The American people are proud of Pat Moynihan because he spoke up for them at the United Nations."

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., ranking Republican member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, commended Moynihan as having made "a unique contribution to stimulative thinking about actions and attitudes of the United Nations."

Moynihan's outspoken defense of the United States before the U.N.

L.V. man kidnaped, robbed, handcuffed to steering wheel

An 18-year-old La Verne man told police Monday that he was kidnaped from a Pomona bank parking lot, driven to a remote area in La Verne, robbed of $750 and left handcuffed to the steering wheel of his car.

The victim, Ronni D. Blackwell, a student, managed to free himself by removing the steering wheel with a wrench he had left on the floorboards.

Blackwell said that the incident began at the rear of Lloyd's Bank, 1095 N. Garey Ave. shortly after 11 a.m. He said that as he parked, a young man entered the car through the passenger door, threatened him with a pistol and ordered him to drive. They wound up in an orange grove near Fulton Road and Bonita Avenue where the man ordered Blackwell to empty his pockets. After taking the cash, the man handcuffed Blackwell to the steering wheel and then walked away.

Blackwell said the cash represented the amount he had obtained recently from the sale of a car.

After freeing himself Blackwell walked to the home of a friend and called police. The robber was described as black, about 19, 5 feet 7 inches, weighing 180 pounds. He wore a red, fishnet short-sleeved shirt and blue jeans.

A young EL MONTE man who admitted second-degree murder in the slaying of a former American Nazi Party official last August in El Monte was placed on probation for five years Monday.

Jerry K. Jones, 19, was granted probation by Pomona Superior Court Commissioner Jess Whitehill who made a 300-day jail term one of the conditions of probation. But the commissioner gave Jones credit for 288 days he has served already leaving a balance of 72 days in jail ahead of the young man.

Other conditions were that Jones not possess deadly weapons and that he not accept a job which might require the use of firearms. Whitehill then agreed to allow Jones to move to Oregon to live with his parents when he finished his jail term.

Jones originally was charged with first-degree murder in the slaying of Joseph Tomassi, 24, who was killed during a scuffle outside the El Monte headquarters of the National Socialist White People's Party where Jones was acting as an armed guard.

Frank Bingham, 19, also was arrested in the case and is awaiting trial on two counts of assault with a deadly weapon.

Tomassi had been the leader of the American Nazi Party's El Monte chapter but was ousted in 1973. He later formed a splinter group, the Nationalist Socialist Liberation Front.

In MONTCLAIR a Pomona woman's screams scared off a man who forced his way into her car and threatened her with a large rock in the rear parking lot of the Montgomery Ward store in the Montclair Plaza Monday night, police reported.

Nancy Rost, 24, of Pomona told officers that she had just gotten off work and was warming up her car to go home when a man suddenly opened the door. She said the man, holding some type of object in his hand, told her "move over." She said the man shoved the object against her throat and grabbed her shoulder. She said she began screaming as loud as she could and managed to get out of the car.

The man dropped the object, and fled on foot through a vacant field. Officers checking the woman's car found a large rock on the floor.

Mrs. Rost described the man as white, 18, 5 feet 6, 155 pounds with brown hair down to his eyes. He was wearing a brown scarf, possibly made out of hopsack material over his mouth, and a dark plaid Pendleton shirt.

Police said the motive for the attack on the woman was not known.

A 19-year-old Ontario woman was booked in the West End Jail this morning after allegedly attempting to stab another woman and an ONTARIO police officer at 129 E. Maple St. Monday evening.

Terry Ann Mays of the Maple Street address was arrested by Sgt. Jess Coffman, for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon and assault with a deadly weapon on a peace officer.

Coffman said he was called to the residence Monday night by a man who reported that a woman had a knife and was threatening to kill another woman. Coffman said when he arrived Terri Lynn Nolen, 17, of the same address said that her girlfriend had just tried to stab her.

Coffman said he found the woman armed with a steak knife in the kitchen. He said he ordered the woman to drop the knife but she attempted to attack him. Coffman said he subdued the woman and took the knife away from her.

Supervisors again held in contempt

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — For the second time in a week, all five Plumas County supervisors were held in contempt of court for refusing to restore full welfare aid to recipients who are appealing efforts to cut or eliminate their payments.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter said Monday he will begin fining each supervisor $100 a day next week unless they comply with a court order to restore welfare payments to the previous levels.

Sacramento County Superior Court Judge Muri Shreck issued a similar contempt citation last week, and threatened to jail each supervisor for five days and fine them $500 each if they don't restore payments by Feb. 6.

The supervisors — Leonard Ross, Joe Crivello, Russell Pappenhausen, Larry Dean and Oliver Olsen — have gone on record opposing state or federally mandated programs such as welfare, contending these are programs that local government never wanted but are required to fund.

Bill would let voters decide

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Santa Barbara legislator has introduced a $290 million coastline acquisition measure.

If approved by the state legislature, the bill by Democratic Assemblyman Gary Hart would let the people decide at the polls in November whether to issue general obligation bonds to acquire and develop recreational areas, especially on the coast.

He said he will be contact man and advocate for the President Ford Committee.

"There should be somebody over here they can call up and we should be able to take their problem wherever it should go, in some cases to the President, in some cases to the staff," Morton said.

There have been complaints at the campaign committee about problems in communicating with the White House, five blocks away.

"Morton is a large voice in a place where we need one," one campaign official said.

Morton said he will meet frequently with Ford to brief him on the campaign.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen had said Morton's political duties would be incidental. Morton didn't tell it that way.

The role of Ford's new counselor

Can't separate politics from government

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's new political counselor calls it hypocritical to try to separate government from politics, saying he intends to work at both and provide a new link between the White House and the Ford campaign.

Rogers C.B. Morton was being sworn in today as a $44,600-a-year presidential adviser, a position that has stirred controversy and one he said is essential to any president.

Morton said "there is no way in the world that you can separate politics from government" in a system based on elections. "And therefore anything you did, like try to say that you work 40 hours a week for the taxpayers and 40 hours a week to re-elect the president, is hypocritical.

"All presidents have always had to have people who are not only advisers but who screen ideas," Morton said in an interview Monday, his first day on the new job.

Political advisers are not new to the White House payroll. Ford's predecessors have had them. But that was before Watergate and the reform movement it produced.

Morton's appointment led the Democratic National Committee to complain to the Federal Election Commission, contending his salary should be counted as a Ford campaign expense.

But a Supreme Court ruling invalidated the FEC's enforcement powers unless Congress revives them by the end of this month.

Morton said if the federal Treasury ultimately must be reimbursed for all or part of his salary, the rule also should apply to Democratic office holders.

"The only thing I want to make sure is that they apply the rules to everybody," Morton said. "I mean, what does a guy do when he's running a district office for a congressman? He mends fences, he takes care of the constituents."

Morton said his White House role will be similar.

Morton, a former GOP national chairman, spent five years in the Cabinet as interior secretary and as commerce secretary. He operates out of the Executive Office Building in an opulent suite once used by Richard M. Nixon.

"I hope to have a lot of input on issues, from a practical point of view," Morton said. "A president needs two or three people to try things out on, and certainly I would be one of those people."

Morton said he expects to spend most of his time trying to make sure Ford's policies and ideas are implemented and understood by the public.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen had said Morton's political duties would be incidental. Morton didn't tell it that way.

He said he thinks "it's going to be tough" in the Ford race against Ronald Reagan in the New Hampshire and Florida primaries. "I think we've got a fair chance" to win both, he said.

He said he also will be the liaison man with Republican party leaders and with other political callers.

"Some of them will want to talk politics, some of them will want to get a job, some of them will want to get a friend a job, some of them will want to get an idea across, some of them will want to help in the campaign — you name it," Morton said.

"I just have a feeling that I'm going to be seeing an awful lot of people."

Stroke unit picks officers

Mrs. Mary La Fetra of Glendora was installed as president of the Organization for Stroke Resocialization at its third annual dinner meeting at Orlando's, Pomona.

Also seated as officers were Dr. Dwayne Bell, Glendora, vice president; Lois Taliaferro, secretary; and Virgil Waters, Arcadia, treasurer.

Guest of honor at the banquet was Desi Arnez Jr., who, with his sister, Lucy, will cohost the Easter Seals 1976 Telethon on March 27 and 28.

The OASR, which has its headquarters at 255 E. Bonita Ave., Pomona, receives funds from the Easter Seals Foundation.

Also known as cardiovascular accidents or brain hemorrhages, strokes hit persons of all ages officials of the organization pointed out.

Often, victims must learn how to walk, talk and eat. Once physical and medical rehabilitation has been achieved, doctors have found that still more needs to be done.

Researchers have discovered that unless a stroke victim can return to group and recreational activities — resocialization — then the stroke victim starts to regress.

Information about OASR may be obtained by calling (213) 335-0389.

Your income tax

Rules changed this year on who must file returns

By RAY DE CRANE
(Second of a Series)

Forget all those old rules you learned in the past on filing requirements for income tax returns. They have all been changed this year.

Here are the new 1975 rules. If gross income meets these levels you must file a tax return for last year:

Single, under 65 $2,350
Single, 65 and older 3,100
Married, filing joint return, both under 65 3,400
Married, joint return, one is 65 4,150
Married, joint return, both 65 4,900
Married, separate return 750
Surviving spouse, under 65 2,650
Surviving spouse, 65 or older 3,400

A self-employed person must file if net income from self-employment is at least $400. He may not owe any income tax, but could be liable for self-employment (Social Security) tax.

In addition, single persons who can be claimed as dependents on their parents' return, must file their own return if they have gross income of $750 or more that includes any taxable dividends, interest, or any other unearned income.

The latter category is aimed at the relatively few wealthy students, who may have sizable interest, dividend or trust income, but who still qualify as a dependent on their parents' tax return. In order to deprive them of the low-income allowance—which is designed to assist low-income workers—these dependents are required to file in a special way.

For the vast majority of younger people who find themselves in the position of having more than $750 of gross income that includes a modest amount of interest or dividends, use of the Tax Table is still permitted.

In addition to the foregoing, anyone who had withholding tax deducted from his earnings should file a tax return, even if not required to file. It is the only way to obtain a refund.

Thousands who were required to file tax returns in the past will be relieved of this requirement by the new rules.

But another new group of low-income workers will want to file a tax return this year. For the first time ever they will get a refund, even if they have paid nothing into the system through withholding tax.

(NEXT: Earned income credit.)

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

Captured by the British after his premature attack on Montreal, Sept. 25, 1775, Ethan Allen, leader of Vermont's Green Mountain Boys and captor of Ft. Ticonderoga, was sent in irons to England and held in Pendennis Castle. Fearing reprisals if they hanged him, the British kept Allen prisoner aboard a warship in the Irish harbor of Cork. Allen was returned to America by the British and paroled. The World Almanac notes, in New York City, June, 1776.

Colby defends use of drugs in CIA work

WASHINGTON (AP) — CIA Director William E. Colby today defended the agency's use of drugs in operational situations. He said that in his own experience behind enemy lines in Norway during World War II, "I got up several hills thanks to some good benzedrine."

Colby made the statement on NBC-TV's "Today" show. Benzedrine is a stimulant.

Colby made no mention of any CIA use of drugs against enemy intelligence agents and did not attempt to defend previously reported instances in which LSD and other behavior influencing drugs had been tested on people without their knowledge.

Yes.

A savings and loan can pay you higher interest than we can.

It's a fact of life.
Most savings & loans pay at least 1/4% more than banks in every type of savings plan.
We'd like to say that
UCB is a rare exception.
But it isn't.

Why do banks pay less?

Not because we want to. After all, we'd get more business if we paid 10%
while a savings & loan paid 5 1/4%.

The fact is, a bank can't pay you more interest for the same reason an airline can't fly you from L.A. to New York for $10.96. The Federal Government has something to say about it. And what it says is that savings & loans get to pay more. But they don't get to offer as many services.

So why save at a bank?

Naturally, we have some pretty strong opinions about that. But we'll spare you our opinions and just tell you the facts.

FACT: Banks are usually more convenient. First, you have everything in one place — your savings, checking, safe deposit box, all types of loans — even your credit card.

Second, banks often have more branches than savings & loans. Example:
UCB has 260 offices in California, while the largest S&L has under 100. So if you're way across town, or halfway across the state, your money may be handier.

FACT: The extra interest you earn at an S&L may not be worth the trouble of traipsing from one institution to another.

The chart below shows what that interest adds up to over the years.

How
a $500 Savings Account Grows.

Number of Years	5%* at the Bank	5 1/4%* at the S&L
1	$525.63	$526.95
2	$552.58	$555.35
5	$642.00	$650.08
10	$824.33	$845.20

*Interest compounded daily on a 365-day basis.

Assuming we've given you a good reason or two to save at a bank, here are a few things you should know:

Is your money safer at a bank?

No. If a savings & loan is insured by the Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corporation (F.S.L.I.C.), your money's as safe there as it is at any bank.

At most banks, including UCB, each depositor is insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (F.D.I.C.) for up to $40,000.

How does interest work?

Let's say a bank paid you a flat 5% on $100 for one year. You'd earn $5. That's called simple interest. Now, when a bank adds a part of that $5 interest onto the $100
at regular intervals during the year, then you earn interest on the interest as well. That's called compounded interest.

Some banks compound interest quarterly. At UCB we compound it daily. So if your $100 and the interest were left in the account all year, you'd earn $5.13. Remember that the less often your interest is compounded, the less you'll earn.

Remember, too, that UCB pays interest to your account quarterly. And any regular savings account deposits you make through the 10th of a calendar quarter earn interest from the 1st.

While all of that may not seem very exciting, you'll find that it can make a big difference in how much a bank ends up paying you. According to a recent study, there are at least 50 different ways to figure the interest on a 5% savings account.
And those ways can vary the amount of interest you earn as much as 171%.

Things to watch out for.

- Some banks limit the number of free withdrawals you can make from your savings during a quarter. Any extra ones cost you as much as 50¢. At UCB you can take money out as often as you like at no charge.
- Most banks also charge a fee for closing a new account within a certain time period. Again, at UCB there's no charge.
- At some banks you need as much as $100 in your account or you won't be paid any interest at all. At UCB all you need is $1.
- Banks usually pay interest to your account at the end of each quarter. So if you close your account before then, you lose all the interest you've earned that quarter. HINT: Don't close the account. Leave a dollar or two in it until the quarter ends. Then you'll get the interest earned to the date of withdrawal.

Things to remember.

Before you open a savings account:
Look for a bank that makes saving convenient. At UCB you can transfer money from savings to checking over the phone.
You can bank by mail and we'll pay the postage. Many of our branches have drive-up and walk-up windows. And some even have extended hours.

After you open a savings account: If you suddenly need cash, and you've got an account at UCB, you can ask us for a loan at a lower than usual interest rate. That's possible because we'll let you use that savings as collateral, or security on the loan. Meanwhile, your savings remains intact, earning 5% interest.

How UCB can help you save.

Try our Automatic Savings Plan. It lets us save the money for you. Just like your Mom used to. Nice. And almost painless.

Just tell us how much you want to save and how often.
We'll transfer it from your checking into your savings automatically.

Now that we've told you the straight facts about saving money, we halfway expect you to beat a path to our door. After all, who else wants your business enough to go to all the trouble to write an ad like this?

Bonita at Alta Loma Wednesday

Garey nears crown

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

Garey High's victory over Damien last Friday, while not an artistic success, virtually wrapped up another San Antonio League title for the defending CIF 3-A champion Vikings.

The 82-69 win, which local prep fans had an opportunity to review Sunday on KNBC's Prep Sports World show, left Garey two games ahead of the second-place Ganesha Giants with only one game remaining against a team with a winning record.

The Vikings' final league contest will send them to Ganesha, presently 6-2 in SAL games and 13-7 overall. But between then and now, the toughest opponent (by record) the Vikings will face will be the Claremont Wolfpack, 4-4 in league, 8-10 on the year. And the 'Pack's 81-50 loss at Garey earlier this season left no indication that the Claremonters are ready to knock off the defending champs.

Claremont will try to climb above the 500 mark tonight at Damien (5-3, 11-8). A win for the 'Pack will throw third place — and a probable playoff berth — up for grabs, while a Damien victory would go a long way toward insuring that the Vikings, Giants, and Spartans will be the SAL's most likely postseason representatives.

The 'Pack will be led by 6-foot-7 sophomore center Derek Britton, who is averaging 12.9 points per game, and senior guard Dave Brigante, averaging 11.1.

Damen sports the valley's top scorer in Mike Wetenkamp (23.8 average), who is supported by Jon Kolodge and Bill Duffy.

Other SAL contests tonight will send Garey to Montclair, Ganesha to Chino and Pomona to Upland, all at 7 p.m.

Also tonight, Chaffey will visit Eisenhower at 7:30, while one-half hour later Ontario Christian will visit Whittier Christian, La Verne

Progress Bulletin
Sports

Lutheran will entertain Big Bear. Webb will travel to Aquinas and American Christian will visit Maranatha.

But the feature game of the week will take place Wednesday, when Bonita makes a stop at Alta Loma. The Bearcats (7-1, 14-5) are the only Hacienda League team within striking distance of the front-running Braves (8-0, 19-1).

Coach Remi Tremblay of Bonita thinks his 'Cats have a good shot at upsetting the Braves, but knows it will be difficult.

"We have a rough week, with Alta Loma and Ontario," he said Monday. The Jaguars, tied for third place with Gladstone, own a 5-3 league record and are two games behind Alta Loma in the standings. The Jags will host Bonita Friday.

"I don't think we're really all that much better physically than any given team in the league," Tremblay continued. "Alta Loma is better physically to the extent that they can beat another team even on an off night. I don't think we are."

One key member of Alta Loma's squad is, however, physically ailing at present.

Anthony Vasquez, the Brave with the highest scoring average (11.7 points per game), is recuperating from a torn tendon he suffered last week in a practice session. He missed both games last week.

"He's in pretty good shape," said coach Jeff McCall of his 6-2 senior guard. Vasquez has been undergoing therapy for his injured forearm.

"We expect him to be able to play Wednesday," said McCall. "We won't know until Wednesday how much he'll be able to play or if he'll be able to start."

The coach said that Vasquez' shooting appears unaffected. "He would probably be bothered the most in rebounding and scrambles for the ball," McCall said.

McCall's balanced lineup also includes center Rich Davis (10.7 points per game), forward Jeff Anderson (7.7) and guards Jamie Eagle (9.4) and Matt Roberts (7.8).

Tremblay relies primarily for scoring upon center Steve Sly (22.9) and forward Aaron Bitran (14.7). Guard David Drury is the next high scorer for the Bearcats with 8.6 points per game.

Other Hacienda League games Wednesday will include Ontario at San Dimas and Gladstone at Walnut. All HL contests will begin at 4:45 p.m.

Wednesday's HL slate will begin an eight-day stretch in which each team will play four games. The teams will play again Friday but next week's games will be moved up to Monday and Wednesday because of the holiday (President's Day) next Friday, Feb. 13.

NBA, players settle lawsuit

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The players association of the National Basketball Association accepted today a compromise settlement of the Oscar Robertson lawsuit issues with the NBA.

Larry Fleisher, general counsel for the players, said the compromise agreement had been reached on the option clause, the college draft and the compensation issue involved with the option.

The out-of-court agreement of the suit, which was filed by Robertson in behalf of all the players of the NBA in 1970, was made final in a 24-hour negotiating session starting Sunday and going into the early hours Monday.

"What we have done," said Fleisher said, "is agree to the basic settlement. We've arrived at what we believe is a workable and equitable system for professional basketball."

Fleisher said the agreement will be presented to the players for a vote, then turned over to a federal judge in New York for final approval.

Fleisher said some of the agreements would become effective immediately with other steps taking effect one year from now and four years after that.

The agreement on the draft will apply in selection meetings scheduled for May.

Fleisher said that instead of the draft system that now operates—which gives a drafting team ownership of a player forever—a player drafted can refuse a contract and have his name placed back into the following year's draft. The same process would apply at the second draft, but after the two years, the player could sign with any team.

In effect, this means that a player fresh out of college could sit out two seasons unless he went to play in Europe or with the American Basketball Association—assuming there still is an ABA.

Bruin star takes honor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Marques Johnson, who has recovered from a back injury to play some of the best basketball of his career at UCLA, was named Pacific-8 Player of the Week Monday.

The 6-foot-6 forward scored 17 points and had nine rebounds in the Bruins' 68-62 victory over Southern California Saturday. His key defensive rebound with 1:20 remaining protected a two-point lead and helped UCLA go on to its 95th consecutive home triumph.

Evans back with USC

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Earl Evans, who has missed five games for the University of Southern California basketball game with a strained tendon, will make the team's trip to Washington this weekend, Coach Bob Boyd announced Monday.

The 6-foot-6 Evans, who had been starting at guard, was averaging 11.3 points and six rebounds per game before suffering the Achilles tendon strain in his right foot. The Trojans were 11-1 when Evans sustained the injury in a game in which he played only 14 minutes.

Evans, who played some forward for USC as well as guard, will be available to the Trojans Thursday when they take on Washington State at Pullman in a Pacific-8 Conference game. And he will be ready Saturday against Washington at Seattle.

But Boyd said he probably would not start Evans and still hasn't made up his mind about who will start opposite Marv Safford at guard.

RECORD RUN

Anton Steiner, 17-year-old Austrian comes off bump on Patscherkofel Mt. course Monday. Steiner broke course record by more than 6.5 seconds in trials but may not make Olympics.

Youth typifies Olympics spirit

INNSBRUCK (AP) — By the time you read this, Anton Steiner may have fallen on his backside and ended his hopes of getting into the Olympics. No matter. He typifies the spirit of the Games that began in ancient Greece and have endured wars and disasters.

Steiner, a well-scrubbed, cherub-faced, 17-year-old Austrian, broke the downhill record on the terrifying Patscherkofel Mountain course Monday by more than 6.5 seconds. That alone might indicate that he is an Olympic gold medal hopeful.

As a matter of fact, he may not even make the Austrian team. Two more practice runs will decide which three skiers the Austrians select to join Franz Klammer for their highly-rated squad in the Winter Games.

But in Anton Steiner there is a story that transcends one ski run or even one Olympics. It is a story of youth and expectation that has made the Olympics a spectacle unmatched.

You need to know a bit about Anton.

He lives in Lienz, capital of the Austrian province of East Tyrol. Like most Austrian youngsters, he has been skiing since he could walk. During this Winter Olympics, he might easily be among the 5,000 young Austrian army troops who occupy Innsbruck to protect against the kind of terrorist attack that killed 17 people in the Munich Summer Olympics of 1972.

Many Austrian young men enter the army right out of high school for a six-month hitch. Steiner skis.

Just after his 16th birthday on Sept. 20, 1974, he got on the World Cup circuit and in his first race at St. Moritz, Switzerland, he finished 17th. His other placings that year ranged from 14th to 37th.

This season he started with a creditable eighth place at Wengen, Switzerland. Then he moved up to third in a race at Avoriaz, France.

At Kitzbuehl, Austria, he turned in a poor performance, but came determined to Innsbruck for the important Olympic trials.

In an interview after his sensational run Monday, Steiner conceded that he never had thought seriously about the Olympics. "Now I think that I, Werner Grissman, Klaus Ebernard and Josef Walcher should compete for the three places left on the Austrian team," he said.

The fourth berth already is locked up by Klammer, the gold medal favorite who has won four World Cup downhill races this season.

Steiner looked ahead to the final tests today. "After all, this will show clearly who is the fastest among us on this track."

Toronto is closer to getting Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants, put up for sale as they were running out of cash last year, may start packing today for a new home in Toronto.

The Canadian group hoping to move the baseball team should get clearance from the National League no later than next Monday, when major league owners meet in New York, if San Francisco Superior Court Judge John Benson rules today against the city in its attempt to get an injunction preventing any move.

A temporary restraining order obtained Jan. 12 prevented owners from taking any action at a mid-January meeting, but they heard presentations from the Toronto people and were promised by San Francisco Mayor George Moscone that a huge damage settlement will be sought if the Giants leave.

No one interested in keeping the franchise here, its home since the 1958 move from New York's Polo Grounds, has come forth with an offer matching the Toronto one, $8 million plus $5.25 million to pay off the anticipated cost of breaking the long-term Candlestick Park lease.

"We worked for 11 months to find a local buyer. There just wasn't an acceptable offer," said James Hunt, a lawyer for the Giants. "There doesn't seem to be any real alternative for the court but to let the team move."

The departure of the Giants, who have no manager or coaching staff with spring training drawing near, would give Charlie Finley's American League Oakland A's the 4.5-million population San Francisco Bay area all to themselves in baseball.

Charles B. Rupert, treasurer and top assistant to Giants president Horace Stoneham, has prepared a report which will tell the court of the team's "ever-increasing losses, aggregating $6,390,407 in eight years," and that $500,000 borrowed from the league during 1975 is almost gone.

The Giants also will argue that their attendance problems were partly caused by a 50 cents per ticket tax imposed by the city five years ago after Candlestick's seating capacity was enlarged to 60,000 to accommodate the San Francisco 49ers of the National Football League.

Austrian team officials have said the three fastest in the trials will join Klammer on the team, which is heavily favored in the dangerous, 75-mile-per-hour downhill.

"First I have to make it onto the team. Then I'll think of the Olympic race," said Steiner.

Austrian downhill coach Karl Kahr was happy with the performance and did not think the intramural competition would wear his team out. "On the contrary, it will force them to go all out and become familiar with the track under race conditions."

Steiner flashed down the 3,145-meter trail in 1:49.04 minutes Monday to break the record of 1:55.78 set last year by Klammer, who said he took it easy in finishing third and sixth in the two downhill runs.

In other action Monday, hockey teams from Czechoslovakia, Poland and West Germany won preliminary games to qualify for Olympics' medal competition. The United States, Japan and the heavily-favored Russians were expected to do the same today.

The six winners play a five-game round-robin tournament for the three medals. The losers go into a consolation bracket.

Speed skaters Sheila Young of Detroit, Leau Poulos of Northbrook, Ill., Peter Mueller of Mequon, Wis., and Dan Carroll of St. Louis carried high hopes for the United States in their respective races.

They and the remainder of the U.S. speed skating team arrived in Innsbruck Monday from Switzerland where Miss Young, 25, set a world record of 40.91 seconds in the 500-meter race. Miss Poulos, 24, won the 1,500-meter event in a U.S. record time of 2:13.98 minutes and Mueller, 21, won the men's 500 meters.

Those results in an international speed skating meet gave the American team more hope than ever for several medals. The other best bet, figure skater Dorothy Hamill of Riverside, Conn., was suffering from a cold and sore calf muscles from working out only two hours instead of her usual six.

"It's still sort of bad, it's hard to breathe. But I think it will get better," she said.

The East Germans put on a strong bobbed showing in trials Monday, setting a record of 56.28 seconds over the 1,220-meter course. They also eclipsed another record in the 70-meter ski jump on Henry Glass' jump of 83.5 meters—2.5 meters longer than one set Sunday by Ivo Felix of Czechoslovakia.

Although Austrians generally fared well in Alpine training sessions, the 17-year-old darling of the Tyrol, Toni Innauer, remained off form in the 70-meter jump and would not comment after three poor jumps. Innauer has delighted Austrian fans with his sleek style and feather-like landings, but has been off form the last several weeks.

The opening ceremony is set for Wednesday afternoon in the stadium into which the 90-meter ski jumpers plummet. Austrian soldiers acted as stand-ins for athletes Monday in a rehearsal in which the two Olympic flames were lighted—two in this case to signify not only this Olympics but the Games that were held in Innsbruck in 1964.

Poly's win streak is snapped

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

It was bound to happen sometime. Cal Poly's basketball team hit a dud Monday night in seeing its eight-game winning streak go down the tubes in a stunning 84-83 upset loss to San Francisco State at Kellogg Gym.

It was a night in which Poly could do little right against a team which wanted the victory more than the Broncos did.

"We didn't play tonight," Poly Coach Don Hogan explained after the loss. "This is a good example of what can happen when you don't execute the things which got you to where you're at. We were able to sneak up on people earlier in the year but the other teams are pointing for us now."

As far as the winners were concerned, San Francisco State Coach Lyle Damon said, "We put a total game together here tonight. We've lost so many close games. We know we caught Poly on an off night."

Before the game, Monday's match looked the mismatch of the season. Poly entered the contest with its long winning streak — which tied the school record — while the touring Gators were 3-14 for the season.

But it was evident from the opening tipoff that Poly was not emotionally ready for the game while the Gators were sky high for a victory.

"We have to bite the bullet and go on from here," Hogan said. "We know now that we can be had when we have an off night."

It was obvious the Broncos (11-7) were weary from their big weekend when they defeated Cal State Bakersfield and Cal Poly San Luis Obispo on the road in a pair of key conference games.

At least Poly picked on a good night to be down since Monday's game was a non-league contest.

Hogan hopes his team can bounce back Friday night when the CCAA leaders host second-place Cal State Los Angeles. Coming up next, however, is another potential trouble spot on Thursday night when Azusa Pacific visits Poly in another non-league contest.

San Francisco State won the game with its hot shooting. The Gators were sizzling in making 34 of 53 field goals for 65 per cent while Poly was off target with 31 of 74 for 42 per cent.

While San Francisco was hot, it's also true that the Poly defense collapsed in allowing the Gators good percentage shots all night.

Hogan used a man-to-man defense Monday night rather than the normal zone.

San Francisco State jumped out to a 39-28 lead in the first half but Poly was able to cut the deficit to 45-42 at the intermission. The Broncos scored three straight baskets to open the second half to show signs they were shaking their lackluster play but the Gators regained the momentum.

It looked like it was all over when James Gaston tipped-in a missed free throw to climax a three-point play to give the Gators an 81-74 lead with 2:15 on the clock.

But Poly took it to the wire. Malcolm Kennedy sank a pair of free throws to cut the lead to one (84-83) with 29 seconds left and Poly got the ball back nine seconds later when Jack Gamulin stole a Gator pass.

After a time out, Poly worked the clock down but Gamulin's 20 foot jumper was off target and the Gators got the rebound.

The loss overshadowed a great individual performance from Poly's Joe Sills, who scored a career high 34 points in making 10 of 18 field goals and 14 of 18 free throws.

However, he was about the only Bronco doing his thing.

Paul Newton scored 13 points in the first half but was blanked in the second. Poly's season rebounding leader had only two Monday night as the Gators controlled the boards, 35-26.

Center Mark Bernhard led Poly with nine rebounds but he made only two of eight shots.

Forward Darryl Burns who made 9 out of 10 shots, topped San Francisco State with 23 points followed by Jim Turner and Greg Bond with 12 apiece.

"I still think Poly is the best team in the CCAA," said Damon after his team's big win. "We have either played or scouted all of the conference teams. It seems that Poly plays its best basketball against the best teams."

Apartment foes score point with planners

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Chino residents battling a proposed apartment complex dropped a "bomb" Monday night, and they managed to get some action from the Planning Commission.

It was not clear whether the "bomb" or persistent pleas from more than 100 homeowners did the trick, but commissioners recommended that a general plan study be made in the area of the proposed apartments at the southeast corner of Mountain Avenue and Riverside Drive.

The commission also suggested to the City Council that the environment be protected while the study was underway. After urgings by commission member Nick Medina, the panel also directed City Atty. Jimmy Gutierrez to see whether a building permit can be held up for the 72-unit complex.

Action by the panel came after two unsuccessful motions by Medina and Gary Ingham to temporarily stop construction of the complex, while a study is made. Russell folds joined Medina and Ingham in favoring the move, but chairman Pete Garcia, Betty Cavanagh and Emil Torkar opposed it, making a tie vote and killing the motion. Vice chairman Jim Johns was absent.

Sandra Stokes, chairperson for Chinoans Acting for Responsible Environment (CARE) called the commission action a "small victory." It wasn't quite what residents wanted, but she indicated the commission finally is starting to listen to the community.

Gutierrez came in for some heavy criticism from homeowners after informing them the city could not legally stop construction of the complex.

"If the city slowed down or halted this project, the property owners must be here for a public hearing," said Gutierrez.

Earlier, the homeowners dropped their "bomb", in the form of a recent California Supreme Court ruling that they stated makes it possible to stop the project legally.

Martin Prisco, CARE spokesman, cited two cases involving five acres in Cerritos which were rezoned to single family use. The cases are called "downzoning" and a court ruling indicates a zone change which reduces the market value of the land does not entitle a landowner to compensation from the public.

Gutierrez has stated that if the city halted construction of the 72-unit complex it would be subject to a lawsuit by the developer.

Prisco, citing the case to commissioners, said, "We feel there is legal precedent in this state for stopping the project."

Gutierrez declined to answer the homeowners Monday, indicating he would have a response as to whether the Cerritos cases apply at tonight's City Council meeting. (Later, he said he felt the cases involved inverse condemnation and do not apply to the Chino issue.)

Commissioners were unprepared for Prisco's proposal and Ingham remarked, "You're dropping a bomb on us. You're putting the city attorney on the spot here and that's not such a nice thing to do."

Medina stated, "I agree the apartments are being shoved down their throats but according to the city it is legal. My opinion would change if proof is given of homeowners being misled."

A number of residents whose homes back up to the proposed apartment units proceeded to tell commissioners how they were misinformed by American National Housing, the developer which sold them their homes.

"I was told the corner in question was zoned for apartments but that it would be changed to single family zoning," said Glenn Shaw.

Ben Martin, another resident, said CARE has collected affidavits from homeowners testifying to the "lying, deceit and dishonesty that has taken place."

Planning Director Gale Carr said possible misrepresentation by the developer is a "private matter, something the city cannot get involved in."

Claremont board requests funds for 3 programs

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

The Claremont school board Monday night authorized the district to apply for more than $100,000 for three federally-funded programs.

The district will submit an application for funds for operation of classes in English as a second language for 74 Indo-Chinese refugees as part of the Claremont Adult School program.

According to Asst. Supt. Margaret Hodder, the program complies with the intent of the special funding.

The funds are available through the Indo-Chinese Refugee Act.

Mrs. Hodder explained that three languages are spoken by the refugees living in Claremont.

The district will also apply for funds for "Locus of Control Training as Modifier of Achievement" program, amounting to $41,859.

The project is designed to improve the academic achievement of students in grades four through six at Condit School by shifting their performance motivation from external to internal.

"Locus of Control" is defined as the center of responsibility in this case, internal from which a person feels motivated to meet his obligations.

Mrs. Hodder explained that by causing a shift to internal responsibility in students, academic achievement can be increased, and that students can be prepared better to communicate effectively.

Funding would further implement an innovative program currently in use at Condit and taught by Mrs. Devon Lingenfelter.

Through an individualized learning laboratory, students would demonstrate progress in the basic skills of reading, and a willingness to pursue areas of interest beyond expected activities.

Claremont's proposal was rated 14th last year, and only the top 10 were funded.

The district will apply for funds "in excess of $50,000" for planning prior to implementation of goals established by the state Reform of Intermediate and Secondary (RISE) Commission.

The project is intended to result in a written plan to provide an intermediate and secondary educational program that will meet many goals. Among these are the achievement of minimum levels of competency in language and mathematics for every learner at the two high schools and the two intermediate schools.

BATTLING BACK

Barbara Anderson, one of the residents whose homes back on the controversial proposed apartment complex at Mountain Avenue and Riverside Drive, Chino, checks on the large protest banner erected by angry residents. In view of the objections of more than 100 homeowners and a suggestion that the apartments may be illegal, the Planning Commission Monday night voted to delay the project until a general plan study can be made.

Accused of soliciting gratuity

Censure of La Verne mayor fails by a vote

La Verne Mayor Mike M. Morales narrowly escaped censure Monday night when one of his councilmen charged him with using his office to solicit a gratuity.

Councilman Harrison Sanborn asked for the censure but his motion failed when he could only obtain two of the necessary three votes.

The attempt to condemn the mayor was the result of an apparent misunderstanding six weeks ago when Morales asked subdivider Richard Lewis for some scrap lumber to help the Boy Scouts build a hut.

Lewis says he granted permission but failed to notify his job superintendent, so when Morales showed up at Lewis' construction site one night, the superintendent called police.

There were no arrests and the next day Lewis wrote the city a letter taking responsibility for the mixup.

Sanborn said he was critical of the mayor not because of the police incident but because he should not have used his office to solicit favors from anyone.

Sanborn was supported by Councilman Dan Lopez. His motion died when Morales and Councilman Alan Mackay opposed it. Councilman Frank Johnson had left the meeting earlier.

Morales said he was trying to get the lumber not for himself but for the scouts, and he had asked for the scraps not as the mayor of the city but as an individual acquainted with Lewis.

A 16-year-old Pomona girl was killed in a traffic accident in Tijuana, Mexico it was learned today.

Dawn McLean of 379 E. Center St. died Saturday in an auto accident that apparently injured or killed at least one other person. Details of the accident are unavailable from officials in Tijuana.

Funeral arrangements for Miss McLean are pending at Pomona Valley Mortuary, Pomona. Her remains are still being held in Mexico.

Miss McLean was a former student at Pomona High School.

Horse rider recovering

An 18-year-old Ontario woman whose horse was struck by a car on Mountain Avenue near Locust Street in Ontario Sunday morning was listed in fair condition today at Kaiser's Fontana Hospital.

Roxanne Dianne Sorenson, 18, of 1139 W. Locust St., was knocked from her horse and suffered multiple injuries in the accident, police reported.

Officers said that the woman was riding her horse in a vacant field off Locust Street when the horse ran into the road. The horse was struck by a car driven by Samuel Herrera Gutierrez, 27, of 8480 Monte Vista Ave., Alta Loma. Gutierrez' daughter, Jennifer, 1, was thrown from the front seat to the floor in impact, suffering minor injuries.

Police said the horse suffered only minor injuries in the mishap.

Ontarian's death probed

The San Bernardino County Coroner's Office and Ontario police are investigating the death of an Ontario man whose body was found under a blanket in the bed of a pickup truck parked in the 1400 block of Campus Avenue Monday night.

Deputy Coroner Harvey Castro said the man has been tentatively identified as Ambrosio Rodriguez Cornejo, 41, a pipe fitter who resided at 610 E. Holt Blvd.

Castro said the body was found by an Indian named Chief Crazy Horse who lives in the area.

Uplander injured in crash

A 19-year-old Upland woman was injured Monday afternoon when two cars collided in the intersection of Mission Boulevard and Hope Avenue in Ontario.

Sally Debra Eidson of 1316 Tulare Way, Upland, was treated at San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland for minor injuries and later released.

Police said that the Upland woman's car crashed into the side of a car driven by Sofia Natividad Herring, 28, of Fontana. Mrs. Herring was not injured.

Montclair shifts gear, okays bike plan

The Montclair City Council approved a tentative bicycle plan Monday night with the option of modifying it later and established a bicycle committee to suggest a detailed program designed from the cyclist's point of view.

The council changed its conservative stand two weeks ago which questioned the "false security" created by bike lanes. But the council still showed some hesitancy about implementing a route system without a standardized safety education program for all surrounding communities.

The safety program was the No. 1 priority suggested by the staff and adopted by the council.

By adopting the plan, the city will be eligible for state Senate Bill 821 funds for bicycle and pedestrian facilities plans.

City Administrator Lauren Wasserman reported to the council that the dollars available through this state legislation are on a matching basis. Any amount given must be matched by the city. This fact was not known at the last council meeting on Jan. 19.

Peter Boor of Claremont, who rode his bicycle to the meeting to emphasize his point, presented a case for the cyclist and prompted the council's decision to begin a bicycle committee.

"There is a great deal of difference between the bike as a means of transportation and the bike as a recreational vehicle," Boor began. "The latter is used for the ride alone, not as a means of getting from one specific location to another."

Boor opposed bicycle lanes, saying that there are too many unanswered questions about the roles of both the motorist and cyclist, particularly when either wishes to leave or cross such a lane. He reminded the council that the cyclist has the full rights and restrictions of the motorists as he, too, is governed by the state vehicle code.

"The cyclist can travel very well on existing streets if given a share of the road. The street must be wide enough to allow negotiation. If the street is not wide enough, the cyclist will not travel it," he said.

The shared use concept, Boor said, is the "most feasible, most sensible and least costly."

"I operate my bike as a slow moving vehicle which it is," Boor commented. "I take nothing for granted."

Mayor Harold Hayes agreed that there are many things to be considered. He applauded the importance of Boor's presentation because "it raises many questions that need to be asked. It might be worth our consideration to poll the people's interest in the practical application of bikeways and safety and create a bike committee."

Councilman Ernest Rowley concurred with the committee idea and asked Boor to meet with the Group to orientate the plan to the cyclists' point of view.

Mike Dickson, a coach at Montclair High School, also testified in support of the bicycle as a means of transportation and urged a standardized safety program coordinated with high school teachers and other communities.

The plan's five priorities adopted by the council were public bicycle safety education program; development of bike path along flood control channel; installation of bicycle racks at the Civic Center, shopping centers and parks; bicycle safety signs; bike route, limited parking signs and bike lane stripping.

The basic plan, particularly the bike lane stripping and paths along the flood control channel, may be altered in the final plan implemented by the council. Hayes pointed out that the plan is "not in concrete and can be modified as time goes along."

In approving the tentative plan, the council referred the matter to the Community Action Committee to arrange details of implementation, establish a bike committee drawing upon interested residents, investigate alternate means of funding and draw up future amendments to the bike ordinance.

Walnut school board members voted to continue present policy Monday night rather than adopt several proposals of the Certificated Employee Council.

However, they stated they recognized the need for further investigation and study in an attempt to reach an agreement with the employees.

Proposals included six months advance notification of expiration of a credential, notification and permission to examine any critical material placed in an individual's personnel file, the right of the employee to inspect and copy personnel file materials on request, and the right of an employee to retain a resignation as his property until acted upon by the board.

Board members also approved an application for federal funds for a project to develop divergent modes of thinking in mentally gifted children.

Objectives would be to encourage students to consider all sides of a question, to keep their minds open as they consider alternative solutions and then to evaluate those solutions, and to become reflective rather than impulsive in considering problems.

The proposal calls for approximately $10,000 in federal funds. No matching funds are required.

The project involves adaptation and incorporation of techniques and materials developed by Eleanor Manning and her staff in the East Whittier schools.

Housing plans for 1976-77 and a student smoking policy were discussed by the board.

Cable TV firm wins new delay in Upland

The controversy in the Upland City Council over whether International Cable Television Co. should have its franchise canceled was still not resolved at the Monday meeting.

After hearing that contracts are "somewhere in the mail" between attorneys for Theta Cable Television Co. and those for International, the council agreed to continue the matter until the next meeting Feb. 17. The contracts concern a cooperative agreement between the firms.

Councilman Hal Bailin said he reluctantly agreed to a two-week delay in the decision but added "If an agreement isn't reached in two weeks, then that's it."

Complaints about poor service and frequent blackouts by International which serves northern Upland and the San Bernardino County area adjacent to the city first were aired before the council on Oct. 6.

A series of hearings resulted in the council resolving to cancel the franchise of the company. Delays were granted to allow International and Theta to work out an agreement whereby Theta would take over and upgrade the International lines and equipment.

Wayne Allwart of Riverside, who was hired just one week ago as manager for the International Cable firm, told the council "We haven't been doing very much. But we intend to do something."

The council gave him two weeks more to prove it.

Getting down to history basics

Since his appointment in 1974 as head of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, John Warner has traveled more than a quarter-million miles, crisscrossing these not-so-United States.

You might think that urging Americans to look back across their first 200 years to rediscover the nation's strengths of spirit and wisdom would be an easy task, says Warner, a former secretary of the Navy. "It is not always."

He freely admits there are dissenting views on the Bicentennial. Many blacks and American Indians, for example, complain that they haven't much to celebrate.

To them, Warner replies, "O.K. Use the Bicentennial to point up to the whole country your problems and needs. America is strong enough to look at its sometimes gray past."

Then there are complaints that the Bicentennial celebration is being turned into a "Buy-centennial Sell-ebriation" because of a flood of shoddy souvenirs aimed at cashing in on patriotic fervor.

But only a part of this outpouring of memorabilia is officially sanctioned by the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission in Washington, in return for royalties that will be used to help sponsor 1976 festivities.

As established by Congress, Warner points out, the ARBA has no power to tell anyone what to do. It can only advise and help state and local Bicentennial commissions in planning their observances.

The freedoms won two centuries ago included not only freedom of speech but freedom of taste, he reminds us.

On a more encouraging note, he also reports that "what strikes me most as I move around the country is the great enthusiasm of citizens from every walk of life for activities that say, 'You bet, I'm proud to be an American.'"

So far, the ARBA's computer that keeps track of what Americans are doing or planning in observance of the nation's 200th birthday has recorded more than 30,000 activities, with an unknown number yet to be reported.

"The year 1976 will be a benchmark for generations," says Warner, "a point in time when America stood amid massed flags and exploding fireworks to look both backwards and forwards at what America is and should be."

"Not everyone can afford gold or silver medallions. But I'm sure most Americans will want something that says, 'Yes, I was there then. And what we say and thought and did will become part of the heritage the nation will celebrate at the Bicentennial.'"

Combat pay next?

This is what editorial writers call a sorry commentary on the state of society:

A bill has been introduced in the Ohio General Assembly to permit local boards of education to grant "assault leave" to teachers who are injured by a student in the performance of duty.

Total number of "assault leave" days would depend upon the seriousness of the injury, which would require medical verification.

Under the present system, a teacher unable to perform his or her duties as the result of an assault may take sick leave. But since severance pay at retirement is based on the number of unused sick leave days a teacher has accumulated, this could be adding financial penalty to physical injury.

According to Ohio State Rep. Francine Panehal, author of the legislation, the number of assaults on teachers by students increased 77 percent in the United States between 1970 and 1973.

There are more than 70,000 instances of assaults against teachers annually in the United States, says the Ohio Federation of Teachers.

The accuracy of these figures may be open to question — "assault" is a pretty loose term that could run the gamut from a minor scuffle to actual physical attack — but there is little doubt that teaching in some schools these days is a job fully deserving of combat pay.

LACMA not a union

Dear Editor:

I feel compelled to respond to the letter from Mr. Schisler of Claremont, written in answer to the letter to Governor Brown by George Buehler, M. D., President of Los Angeles County Medical Association regarding the Malpractice Crisis (January 27, 1976). Misstatements of facts and the solution offered also shows lack of understanding by Mr. Schisler.

He stated, "Los Angeles County Medical Association, a very strong union." Fact is: Los Angeles County Medical Association is not, and never has been, "a union." I find that a number of people share this misconception. L. A. C. M. A. is a professional association which has none of the power or protection provided by law for a union. This has been a handicap for physician members in facing some of the current problems. It has also motivated some of its members to join a bona fide union while at the same time being a member of the association.

The Los Angeles County Medical Association has accumulated information on incompetent physicians in the past. However, it only has the power to deny membership in the association, not to remove the license to practice medicine! Experience in the past in reporting information to the State Board of Licenses has been disappointing, to say the least. I would not argue that identifying and controlling "incompetents" needs improvement. Hopefully, the reorganization of the State Board of Medical Licensure, now going on, will achieve that goal.

The concept that only "incompetent physicians" are sued and are responsible for the high premium costs is debatable. If it were true and we eliminated those physicians from the Pomona Valley area, there would be very few left to practice medicine, especially the "high risk" specialties. In my observation, malpractice litigation seldom involves incompetence on the part of the physician.

The problem is complex and suggestions for solution need to be discussed. Tort reform seems to be the only logical approach. Perhaps we should be discussing how to achieve this in the shortest time possible, instead of singling out the Medical Association as a scapegoat. — Richard D. Davis, M. D., Pomona

Reactions to Ford message

WASHINGTON — In the imperial Nixon years, White House image-makers orchestrated reactions to presidential pronouncements as a matter of policy.

Sometimes before the President spoke, his staffers with key pro-Nixon organizations, generating favorable letters on Vietnam, China, even Watergate speeches. Then the totals were triumphantly released to an increasingly skeptical media.

In the less glibful White House of Gerald Ford, the volume of mail runs lighter. A week after the State of the Union address, for example, only 1,500 letters had arrived. But a refreshing touch of American spontaneity is back in them, as our sampling of them shows.

Nearly two out of three approved of Ford's talk. The rest were split between those who simply wanted to comment and those with some harsh and, rarely, obscene things to say to their President.

A Minnesotan wrote, saying, "Enclosed is a clipping showing Mr. Albert (House Speaker Carl Albert) yawning during your address." The Oklahoma Democrat deserves "being tarred and feathered," wrote the angry midwesterner. "The Congress may yawn, the public may think of you only as a great guy. But I say that you are the Pope John of the U.S. in disguise."

A Pennsylvanian took a different tack, writing that "God I trust — It's you I worry about. Your rhetoric is beautiful, your policy is ambiguous." Echoed a New Yorker, "You mentioned the economy . . . is getting better. I wondered whether you were talking about these United States."

From Belgium, a retired U. S. military officer grumbled that he was "shocked" at Senator Edmund Muskie's critical rebuttal to the State of the Union address. "Keep up the fight, Mr. President, you have so many raw-knuckled opponents you need to remain strong. We ask you to support Angola. Red is still not better than dead."

An acerbic Pennsylvanian wrote that "I have a W-I-N button left over from your speech of last year when you threatened to make an all-out effort to reduce inflation . . . When do I start to wear the button?"

From his home state of Michigan, Ford got these words of encouragement: "You put the facts as they are . . . Now if those bubbleheads in Congress can see the light, this nation will come out all right. Don't worry about Reagan, he's painted himself into an incompetent corner. Hubert H. Humphrey, the Good Lord spare us. He'll talk the nation to death. Mother once asked him if he'd been vaccinated with a phonograph needle."

Most of the praise came for Ford's cool head or honest manner. The criticism centered on his plan to raise Social Security payments.

"This Robin Hood practice of robbing the middle class to allow the needy to receive services they cannot afford for themselves is a rip-off," wrote a Californian.

But one of those "needy," a Missouri mother of two, wrote, "The added burden of increasing Social Security taxes will find our little family hard pressed to pay our immediate bills."

An intriguing message came from an 11th grader in California, saying, "If you have never heard of me, remember not many people heard of you until you were Vice President."

Big corporations, the student said, make as much as $2 million per hour "and paid about two per cent in taxes. My mother, on the other hand, got about $4 an hour and paid about 27 per cent in taxes. It is my suggestion, therefore, to raise their taxes to about 27 per cent."

The young economist-in-the-making said the corporate tax money could be used to "clean up the rivers and lakes which they have polluted . . . Would you want (your children) to live in a world where breathing is like smoking three packs of cigarettes, where the water can cause cancer and where just looking at something hurts your eyes because of the smog?"

Footnote: The quality of letter answering also has improved. A T-shirt sent to Ford with a U. S. seal on it was returned (insured) with a polite personal note explaining the President could not accept it lest it look like an endorsement.

CRY WOLF: The Interior Department has secretly taken part in the controversial shotgunning of Alaskan wolves, supposedly a project carried out only with state funds.

Interior first denied it allotted more than $10,000 to help finance the slaughter, but Rep. William Whitehurst, R-Va., angrily wrote Interior Secretary Tom Klieppe that the denial was false. Interior now concedes it made a "mistake."

In addition to the $10,000 another $141,000 in federal funds helped Alaska track and kill the wolves from planes. Many of the hapless wolves had been tagged with radio collars under an Interior grant for study of their habits so they could be preserved.

The Alaskans claim the wolves kill baby moose.

Meanwhile, Klieppe, in an effort to plug leaks on wolf stories and other matters, has approved a secret memo written by his undersecretary, Kent Frizzell, which could have been penned by H. R. Haldeman in the most repressive Watergate days.

The directive says "each Assistant Secretary . . . will be henceforth personally accountable not only for their own statements and actions, but for those of their subordinates . . . Violations of this policy will be dealt with accordingly."

The edict bars Interior personnel from making speeches without prior clearance and requires them to testify or speak only in line with what Klieppe orders.

Significantly, the anti-leak memo, which was distributed on an eyes-only basis within Klieppe's and Frizzell's offices, was immediately leaked to us.

Time for realism

It was George Romney who first described our economic system as neither capitalism nor socialism — but "consumerism." His clarification eventuated in a new focus. Now Wally Hickel is redefining our political preference as neither liberalism nor conservatism — but "realism."

Let's see what he means. Former Interior Secretary Hickel says that down through this century we've been riding a pendulum, back and forth, left, right, left.

We've discovered there's nothing "real" about a Communist under every bed. We've discovered there's nothing "real" about isolating ourselves from the rest of the world.

Yet there is a "real" need for some enlightened selfishness. So, he says, "the wave of the future is realism."

Government taking care of everybody with nobody left to take care of the government is fantasy, not reality. In trying to do everything for everyone we almost destroyed the system.

We listened to a minority of a minority and nearly litigated and legislated away our own freedoms. A total cleanup of our environment is a romantic illusion of it results in a beautiful environment occupied by the cold, hungry and unemployed.

Americans were delayed two years in recognizing the reality of Alaskan oil, and now those same forces which stalled the pipeline are mobilized against offshore oil and against nuclear energy.

Meanwhile, we should be punching more holes in Texas but we're not — because a driller dares not plan a $10 million investment when he doesn't know whether the price of gas is going to be 52 cents or $2.

The lawmakers have lost sight of "reality." Economists protest our economy is becoming too complex, too unmanageable. In reality, economics is as simple as this: There is no wealth without production. The way to stop inflation is to increase production.

The cost of electricity will go down when there is more than enough electricity. The price of a house will go down when there are more houses than buyers. That is realism.

Welfare given free to people who are able to work destroys that person inside out. Government must face this reality.

A wave of realism across our nation will be our salvation. We don't want to follow any more leaders who promise a new world that can never be. We want one who'll say to America: "Let's get to work."

We need fewer do-gooders and more good doers — to accept and build upon the realities which were what America was all about in the first place.

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

World's records come and world's records go. And in most cases, yesterday's achievements are today greeted with little more than tolerant laughter. To illustrate:

In September, 1908, folks were all agog over a new world's record for non-stop airplane flight that had been set in Paris. The plane was in the air for 31 minutes. It traveled a little more than 16 miles, flying at an average height of 20 feet, at times ascending as high as 30 feet and descending to 12 feet.

But of course there are certain areas where man has failed to show any great improvement over the accomplishments of his forefathers. In that same year, 1908, in London, T.E. Hammond set a new world's record for the 100 mile walk. His time was 18 hours, 4 minutes and 14.2 seconds.

So let's not underrate those old timers. One way or another, folks really got around in the early years of the Twentieth Century.

SALT loopholes could 'Backfire'

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The Kissinger-Brezhnev strategic arms limitation proposals the Secretary of State is passing from hand to hand in the administration are incredible. So much so that some among the President's men are advocating postponement of public debate on whatever is finally decided along these lines, if possible, until after November's elections. And most certainly until after the Republican and Democratic nominating conventions.

The delay would be accomplished, according to this scenario, by holding off as long as possible on fine details — so that it would be late in the year before the projected treaty went to the Senate for ratification.

This missile is a bone of contention because it can be made to fly long distances at altitudes so low it can sneak under defense radar. Experts say satellite photographs do not provide the information necessary to distinguish between the 375-mile cruise missile which Kissinger and Brezhnev define as non-strategic and which therefore could be built at will — and a 1,000 or 1,100 mile strategic missile.

Without on-site inspections, which Moscow will not agree to, the Russians could thus safely build strategic weapons in violation of any treaty provisions. This is possible because increased range does not require outward design changes which would be detectable from the air, but rather improvements in the fuel and internal engine structure.

The Russians, in fact, could safely argue their 1,000-mile cruise missiles actually had a 375-mile range. With the proper choice of fuel they could "prove" it.

The proposals also reportedly call for limiting strategic cruise missiles to a 1,500-mile range — a proposal which is patently absurd on its face, because this limitation too can be so easily evaded. While it is possible for a satellite to tell a 375-mile missile from a 2,400-mile type, this ability does not extend to distinguish between 1,500 and 2,400 mile weapons. This assumes only that the Russians have the design knowhow which exists in this country or that they will achieve that ability in a few years.

Once you get above the 2,500-mile range, specialists say, the design, to be effective, must be significantly different. And certain distinguishable changes must be made in auxiliary equipment.

The Kissinger-Brezhnev proposals include other absurdities. They provide, as reported, that Soviet intercontinental Backfire bombers would not be considered strategic weapons, thus would not be counted against the USSR strategic weapon total. But U.S. B-1 intercontinental bombers would be counted against the American allowance.

Kissinger's sophistry is apparent in the arguments he presents to convince one and sundry the Soviet Backfire is not strategic and therefore not capable of bombing strategic U.S. targets if its refueling gadgetry is removed and the plane is barred from Arctic bases in peacetime.

This is stuff and nonsense. Estimates on the time it would take for the Russians to reinstall the refueling equipment on a Backfire range from several hours to a day if the plane were manufactured with that in mind and the needed supplies were kept at hand. And regardless of basing restrictions, in time of war, which is what counts, the big Backfires could be staged through Arctic bases at will.

More importantly, the Backfires can reach American targets without refueling and without using Arctic bases.

Better to keep parakeet home

DEAR DR. MILLER: Soon I'll be taking a three-day trip by automobile. I'm undecided on whether to take my year-old parakeet, Vito, or leave him at home with an adequate food and water supply? Would the jostling of the car be injurious to the bird, or would the solitary confinement at home be more harmful? — G. S.

DEAR G. S.: Vito's better off alone at home for three days if his environment there remains near normal, in other words, the temperature and other factors, food included, remain essentially the same. Hoppers or self-feeders for birds will be a help if Vito is used to using them, but avoid introducing something new to his cage at this point. If a neighbor could come in to provide fresh seed, that would certainly be desirable. There is a tendency for the empty seed husks to build up on top of the seed cups. Then the bird goes hungry, even though there's whole seed under the husks. (The bird seldom digs through the husks to get down to the seed.) The main concern on the trip itself would not be the jostling, but the strong probability of violent temperature changes and dangerous drafts.

DEAR DR. MILLER: From all over, including from you, we've heard about all the poor surplus cats in the world. There's even some around here. But doesn't breeding a cat have a favorable effect on her personality? — W. S.

DEAR W. S.: Breeding and events related thereto usually do have an effect on a pussycat's personality, temporarily. Since these changes last little longer than the episode itself, pre-pregnancy surgery is indicated to lessen littering problems.

DEAR DR. MILLER: For brushing out the coat, is it better to use a stiff brush or a soft one? — G. L.

DEAR G. L.: The best brush for most heavily coated dogs would be stiff. For the sparsely coated older animal, dog or cat, a soft brush would be better. No matter how stiff the brush, it might not penetrate a heavy double coat in adequate fashion. No matter how soft, it might irritate some sensitive skins, so it should be appropriate to the job and frequently should be used in conjunction with an appropriate comb. For many animals, a comb is considerably more efficient, and a brush may not even be needed.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have my new saltwater tank set up and am getting a hydrometer reading of 1.025. That is the correct reading, isn't it? Some say slightly higher's better, some say slightly lower. It seems like a good compromise reading for saltwater. Shouldn't it be OK? — D. L.

DEAR D. L.: If you have an accurate hydrometer, your salinity reading of 1.025 is not only correct, it's what you want. (It's important to invest in a quality hydrometer since maintaining that proper salinity is critical to the marine tank and you can't rely on the reading you get from a "cheapie" instrument.)

BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Wednesday, Feb. 4

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You may have some problems today getting others to co-operate. Don't be as unyielding as they are or nothing will get done.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It's nice to be helpful, but be careful who you volunteer to aid today. You may hit someone who's waiting to unload all their burdens.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is definitely not the day to buck the majority. Being the lone dissenter will probably leave you stranded.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Play down your role in joint endeavors today. Blowing your own horn too loudly will only turn associates against you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It would be a mistake to challenge one whose view conflicts with yours today. The sympathy is likely to be with your opponent.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you're operating in a strange commercial arena today, be sure the deal is clear to you, so you'll have recourse if you're hoodwinked.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Matters having a far-reaching effect on the household or family must be thoroughly understood by you and your mate today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A person who has neglected to thank you for past favors will knock on your door again today. Don't look for a different ending.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Normally, Lady Luck smiles upon you. Today, you could venture where you know the odds are against you — and lose your shirt.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Timing is all-important today. It would be foolish to make concessions and upset your well played intentions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Just because the person who presents a plan to you is strong-willed and forceful doesn't mean he's right. Use your own judgment.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your generous nature can be a detriment today if you find you'll be giving more than you can afford. Don't overextend yourself.

Your Birthday Feb. 4

You're going to be more footloose and fancy-free this coming year than you have been for some time. Salt away something now for those frequent short trips.

Ann Landers

Readers have their say

Dear Readers: Recently, "Grumpwich from Atlanta" wrote to say she made tremendous sacrifices to put her husband through professional school and she feels left behind socially and intellectually. The unhappy woman (now 40) wondered how other wives who did the same thing feel about it. I told her I'd ask.

Well, I did — and they let me know in very emphatic language. Although the "aggravers" invariably have a stronger compulsion to write than those who are FOR something, I was astonished that the women who said "I'm sorry I did it" outnumbered, by eight to one, those who said "I'm glad." Here are some excerpts:

Dear Ann: I, too, put my husband through school. Sorry? You bet. After five years of slaving (two of those years were in a factory, the only job I could find), guess what he told me. "You wouldn't fit in. Your grammar and vocabulary would be an embarrassment. You should have been studying evenings, after work." (He didn't say who would be doing the washing and ironing and marketing and cooking and cleaning.) If I had it to do over again — I'd have put MYSELF through and let him paddle his own canoe. — Blew It

Dear Ann: I put my husband through dental school and he put me through hell. The whole time I was working 60 hours a week, he was playing games with a girl in his class. I didn't have a clue. The week after he got his diploma he told me I wasn't "his type" and opened an office with the girlfriend — whom he later married. — Just Call Me Bonehead

Dear Ann: I met Joe when we were in high school. He wanted to be an engineer. We both worked until his junior year, then Joe lost his job, so I worked a double shift three days a week. Joe graduated with honors and I was so thrilled I bawled for three days. That was 14 years ago. Today we have four children and a wonderful marriage. Joe tells everyone he couldn't have made it without me. He's just as proud of me as I am of him. — Happy In Hartford

Dear Ann: I'm a guy who put my girl through college. We were childhood sweethearts, in love as far back as I can remember. I went into my dad's business after one year of college and we were married. She wanted to be a nurse so I put her through. (For five years I ate plenty of canned junk and picked up lots of Chinese food.) After two years of nursing she divorced me and married a doctor, because we had "nothing to talk about anymore." — The Boob

Dear Ann: I put my husband through law school and worked like a dog to do it. After 25 years of marriage he left me for a young chicken, but I'm not crying. Let HER worry about his high blood pressure, his arthritis and kidney stones. At least I won't have to pay for his funeral, too. — Better off

From Chicago: The lady from Atlanta hit the nail on the head. But I was dumber yet. I worked in an all-night diner and scrimped and saved to put the jerk through four years of undergraduate and four years of medical school. The Honorable Doctor left me, not for a woman who was better educated than I, but — get this — a short, fat, bald, middle-aged guy. — It only Hurts When I Laugh

Train conductor kissing banned

State law of Wisconsin prohibits the kissing of any passenger by a railroad conductor. And in Wichita, Kans., it's a violation to take a nap in a boxcar without the permission of the president of the railroad. As for the town of Mexico, Mo., all I can tell you is it's illegal there for a woman juror to knit in court.

COON DOG CEMETERY

Q. "Where's the national coon dog cemetery?"
A. In Cherokee, Ala.

Q. "I've read that actress Doris Day uses plain ordinary Vaseline as a cosmetic . . . ?"

A. So she says. Thickly. All over her body. One night a week. She sleeps so coated. Imagine she's a slippery little rascal.

You didn't know that Adolf Hitler once owned 8,960 acres of pasture in Colorado, did you? And he owned it during World War II, too. Ranchers around the town of Kit Carson put their cattle on it. It was reported in 1942 that some of Hitler's relatives in Germany had bequeathed him the land.

CHOCOLATE BARS

Most of the so-called chocolate bars on the market around here don't have any chocolate in them. Technically, anyhow. No cocoa butter, no chocolate liquor. What gives them that flavor is a cocoa powder extract mixed into vegetable oils. However, just because that Baby Ruth candy bar hasn't been coated with real chocolate for the last 25 years is no sign it doesn't taste good. It does, it does. And so do the bars of the Peter Paul company which switched over to the formula flavoring a couple of years ago.

If you want 200 pounds of grease, filter it out of the air in your kitchen for one year. That's said to be an annual average amount of kitchen air grease.

Erma Bombeck

Her cooking is a lost art

Like most mothers, I have a horror of my daughter getting married, inviting me to dinner and serving her specialty: a bowl of undercooked popcorn.

At our house, cooking is a spectator sport with steady attendance despite a 0-15,683 record.

"Have you no curiosity as to where biscuits come from?" I asked her.

"Nope," she said.

"Don't you have dreams of one day owning your own garlic press?"

"Nope."

"Could you find tumeric in your local grocery store?"

"Why, is one missing?"

Granted, I'm not the greatest cook in the world (you have to have a prescription for my pot roast), but at least I recognize fire when I see it. "Everyone should have at least one specialty," I grumbled. "Let me show you how to make breakfast biscuits from a recipe handed down by your grandmother."

First, you throw a dab of flour into a bowl and . . .

"How much is a dab?" she interrupted.

"A dab is about a handful or two."

"My hand is bigger than yours."

"Okay, a dab minus a pinch!"

"What's a pinch?"

"Here, let me put in the flour. You add a smidgen of shortening."

Dr. Lamb

Pain probably wasn't heart

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M. D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I was awakened at 4 a.m. with a terrible pain around my chest. It was like a giant rubber band getting tighter and tighter. Most of the pain was in the center of my chest, just behind the breast bone.

It was very painful and difficult to breathe. I'm not sure how long it lasted. I tried to sleep but kept waking up with the pain still there no matter which way I laid.

About 9 a.m. I called my doctor's office and the nurse just told me to take the pills the doctor gave me and to drink my milk (I was being treated for an ulcer). My chest was sore the rest of the day as if my ribs were bruised.

That was the first time that ever happened and I hope the last and I'd like to know if you think it is serious and if it could happen again.

It was mentioned to me it could have been a heart attack but I'm only 20, a female and not overweight. I don't smoke or drink, not even coffee. However, there is quite a bit of stress in my life as I help raise my younger brother and sister because my mother is alone.

I have always heard that heart attacks were supposed to cause pain in the arm or leg and I don't remember any such pain. I can't afford a doctor unless it is urgent, so I would really appreciate your reply.

DEAR READER — It is most improbable that you had pain from your heart for the very reasons you mention. Young women almost never have heart attacks unless they have high blood pressure, kidney disease, diabetes or some similar underlying medical problem. Unless you were born with some heart defect or had rheumatic heart disease or other diseases that you would likely know about, I think you can forget about

Jacoby's bridge

Some chance beats none

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Wanda White of Dallas lets her advanced pupils have the fun of bidding and playing today's hand.

At least the bidding is fun. Practically all of them arrive at six spades. The slam contract is not a good one, but most of the world's best players would also find their way to that unsound contract.

The play is no fun for them. They all lose a heart trick and trump trick. Then Wanda points out that some chance to make a contract is better than no chance and the contract can be made.

The jack of trumps is led from dummy at trick two. If East ducks the jack is allowed to ride. If East covers South wins picks up West's doubleton 10-9 and makes the contract.

The play might also work against queen-nine-small in the East hand. East might not cover the jack with that holding.

Ask the Jacobys

A Louisiana reader wants to know if we have found a particular suit to be lucky for us.

The answer is yes. Spades are our lucky suit. This isn't a matter of superstition. They are lucky for everyone because they outrank the other three.

The Rimers of Eldritch' C-P to do Wilson play

The Drama Department of Cal Poly will present "The Rimers of Eldritch" in the University Theater at 8 p.m. Feb. 13 and 14 and 19-21 and 26-28.

The play is by Lanford Wilson, author of "Hot L Baltimore." Director is John Dennis, who also directs the Improvisational Theater Project group at the Forum of the Los Angeles Music Center.

"The Rimers" is a study of the people of the town of Eldritch living and re-living the past; dishing up dirt from the garbage of yesterday in place of an improbable future in their almost-abandoned town.

The focus of the play is on a murder, to which the town inhabitants all contribute, albeit unknowingly and to varying degrees.

The 70 people living in Eldritch are observers of life, not participants. Their activities are gossip and exchange of judgments. They rehash the murder, the affairs of Cora, the threat of the town hermit, the death of Driver, the weather, and the life of "morality."

In the Cal Poly presentations, seating is limited to 150 persons. The play is staged so that the audience is surrounded by the action and becomes involved in the shifting moods and the patterns of movement and language of the characters.

Dennis, whose most recent project at the Taper was "Col. Montana and the Medicine Show Down," says that directing "Rimers" is like "directing a Jackson Pollock painting or a giant collage — as interesting in its form as in its content."

Mary Taylor, who is designing the costumes, has worked with local little theater groups including the Onion Company, Angel's Theater, and Cafe La Mama. She also does custom designing for TV commercials.

"The Rimers," which has had a national television presentation, was first staged in New York in 1966 at the Cherry Lane Theater.

General admission is $2.50, and $2 for students.

Among the tumbled rocks, high in the mountains of Asia, Europe, and western North America, lives the little pika (pronounced PIE kuh). Although closely related to hares and rabbits, its short legs and small, rounded ears make the pika look much more like a small, gray guinea pig. Its voice is a squeaking whistle. On its feet it has little pads of stiff hairs which keep it from slipping as it scampers over the bare rocks of its mountain home. In late summer, the little pika can be seen busily nipping off green plants and gathering them up for food during the long mountain winter.

Like a good farmer, the pika spreads the greens out to dry in the sun and then stacks them under the rocks. The pika's haystack often reaches a height of 3 feet. When snow comes, the pika need only travel from its snug burrow to its "barn" for food aplenty.

The pika has several other names. One is "rock rabbit." Another is "whistling hare."

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

On campus

POMONA COLLEGE'S opening convocation for the second semester will be Feb. 12 at 11 a.m. in Bridges Hall, Claremont.

Fred Krinsky, professor of government at Pomona College, will be the main speaker at the program which is open to the public. His topic is "The American Revolution: Permanent and Renewable."

Rabbi Ben Baliak, chaplain of the Claremont Colleges, will deliver the invocation.

Musical selections will be presented by the Pomona College Glee Clubs, the Brass Ensemble and Richard N. Loucks Jr., class of 1913, who will sing "Hail, Pomona, Hail."

RODERICK M. HILLS, chairman of the Securities Exchange Commission, will be the speaker at the third annual National Issues Forum sponsored by Pitzer College, Claremont, on Feb. 17 at 8 p.m. at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel, Los Angeles.

He will present his analysis of the ups and downs of the stock market and what they mean for 1976.

In October, Hills became the new chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission. With wife Carla Anderson Hills already serving as secretary of Housing and Urban Development, the appointment made him part of the first husband-and-wife team to head two powerful agencies of the U.S. government.

THE FOURTH ANNUAL W. T. JONES lectures in Philosophy at Pomona College are scheduled on Feb. 12 and 13.

Morton G. White, a philosopher, author and professor at the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton, N.J., will be the speaker.

White will deliver one public lecture on "Philosophical Foundations of the Declaration of Independence" at 8 p.m. Feb. 12 in Lyman Hall of the Thatcher Music Building, Claremont.

He will lead a discussion on the same theme for students and faculty at 10 a.m. Feb. 13 in room 204 of Pearsons Hall.

The lecture series is named for W. T. Jones, professor emeritus of the college who now serves on the board of trustees.

CLAREMONT MEN'S COLLEGE has been granted $130,500 by the James Irvine Foundation of Newport Beach to further strengthen its ethnics studies, especially in business and public life. The grant, payable over a three-year period, is subject to annual review. The grant will help establish a professorship of applied ethics at the college.

The Applied Ethics Program at CMC was inaugurated during the 1974-75 academic year with a program of visiting lecturers. It is directed by George C. S. Benson.

STEVEN ALLAN TEMKIM, 20, has been selected as editor of the Claremont Collegian, the student newspaper serving the six Claremont Colleges. A student at Pitzer College, Temkim also acts as the local correspondent for the Associated Press.

CHAFFEY COLLEGE will offer a 12-week water color class beginning Feb. 19. The class will be in the Old Upland Library, 123 E. D St., Room 1.

Registration for the nongraded class is free and can be made at the first session. Hours are 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. Students may attend either of both of the Thursday classes.

THE REV. GEORGE D. KILPATRICK, Ireland's professor of exegesis of Holy Scripture and fellow of the Queen's College, Oxford, England, will speak at 11:45 a.m. Feb. 12 in the Seeley G. Mudd Auditorium on the campus of the School of Theology at Claremont.

The public is invited to the free lecture. Mr. Kilpatrick's topic will be "Some Aspects of Sacrifice and the Holy in the Biblical World."

THE CITRUS COLLEGE Job Placement Office offers its employment service at no cost to currently enrolled day and evening students as well as those who have completed courses in the past.

Mrs. Jean McCombs, college job placement officer, said that job orders and placements have shown a marked increase in the past five months over the same period a year ago.

Individuals seeking employment through the Citrus office have a wide range of capabilities including clerical, secretarial, accounting, electronics, drafting, health occupations, laboratory technician, auto specialties, optics, computer science, education and recreation.

Employers may call the Job Placement Office at (213) 335-0521 or 599-5773, ext. 240, from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Friday regarding either part-time or full-time job opportunities.
